Why Does
Los Angeles
Delay
Decision on the Glendale
Sewer?

MONDAY SHOPPING CAMPAIGN TO START

IS there any significance in the action of the Los Angeles city council in postponing a definite decision on the application of Glendale for permission to connect up with the Los Angeles sewer? Is it a political move? We hope not.

The reason for delay, as given, was in order to permit a full investigation of the question by its consulting engineer, H. A. Van Norman. We, of Glendale, more than welcome an investigation and the more thorough the better, providing overmuch time is not consumed in investigating.

We have stated many times that Glendale's sewer problem was also a Los Angeles city problem. There is no doubt but that this is true, because the seepage from the continued contamination of our soil is bound to find its way into the Los Angeles water supply.

RALPH CRISWELL, one of the Los Angeles city councilmen, at a meeting held some time ago to discuss the sewer problem, presented a view of Los Angeles, a picture of the larger city eager and ready to assist her sister cities in the solving of their sewer problems.

At a later meeting the same councilman said that Los Angeles would fight any attempt to put a sewer farm within polluting distance of the Los Angeles river. She would protect her water supply from contamination at any cost.

If the city of Los Angeles recognizes that a sewer disposal plant near the Los Angeles river would contaminate her water supply she should also recognize that the contamination of the present plan of disposal is far worse.

WE cannot understand why the Los Angeles city council should hesitate any longer, outside of the arranging of the details.

From a sanitary standpoint, the only absolute protection for both cities is through the means of the Los Angeles outfall sewer. A disposal plant is a makeshift and cesspools are worse. Why not accept the situation and give us the definite promise of a tie to their sewer? Delay is liable to be just as harmful to Los Angeles as it is to us.

The deferred meeting will be held next Monday. Let us again urge all citizens who are acquainted with any of the Los Angeles councilmen to use all the influence they have to try and convince them of the justice of our request.

IT has been rumored that there is a group of citizens who are of the opinion that the cost of the sewer would be prohibitive and they would prefer to gain the connection through annexation. A close study will convince the most skeptical, that even if we did get sewer facilities through annexation we would assume a greater amount of indebtedness than we would by building our own sewer. We understand a few of our citizens have contemplated discussing this matter at the open meeting before the Los Angeles council.

We, of Glendale, should get together and thresh the matter out here and not air our discussion of opinions to others. Let's forget all sectionalism and work as a unit to secure a sewer, which will enable Glendale to go ahead and join the big city class.

URGED TO AID IN SEWER PLAN

C. of C. Starts for Delegations From Towns Benefitted

Secretary Sanders announces that the chamber of commerce is promoting the sending of big delegations from Van Nuys, Lancaster and Angelenos Park to supplement the Glendale delegation which will appear before the Los Angeles city council next Monday at the hearing on the outfall sewer proposition in which all these communities wish to join. A member of the Glendale chamber of commerce will attend the noon meeting of the Van Nuys chamber today to present the matter.

IS ANNUAL MEETING
Mrs. S. D. Maynard, New Treasurer; Mrs. C. L. Vierick, Librarian

Monday forenoon the Madrigal Club had its annual business meeting when retiring officers submitted reports and new officers were elected. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Paul Hoffman, 327 North Maryland, who served delicious refreshments at the close of the session.

Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Paul A. Hoffman; vice president, Mrs. Helen MacMullin; secretary, Mrs. H. V. Henry; treasurer, Mrs. S. D. Maynard; librarian, Mrs. C. L. Vierick; directors, Mesdames H. S. Bullinger, Albert Draper and S. E. Richardson.

There was discussion of the work of the past year successful year in which two concerts which were thoroughly artistic were given under the able direction of Mrs. Charles A. Parker and plans were made which will mean a busy fifth year for the organization.

PLAN DEDICATION OF GRAND VIEW
MEMORIAL

American Legion, Auxiliary to Take Special Part in Ceremony

The Glendale American Legion and auxiliary are to have a special part in the dedication of Grand View Memorial park, it was announced at the meeting of the auxiliary yesterday afternoon at the American Legion hall.

The dedication is to take place at 10 o'clock in the morning of Memorial day, and preparations are being made for a beautiful and impressive ceremony. The G. A. R. is customary, will conduct the services to be held at Forest Lawn in the afternoon.

The position of the American Legion and auxiliary to be held in the parade was also announced, and final arrangements were made for this unit's part in the day's program.

Work on the contents of the hope chest have also been completed, it was announced, and the hope chest will be placed on display at the Merchants' exposition, and the tickets disposed of by members of the auxiliary, the proceeds to go to the American Legion benefit.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was well attended, and much interest was shown in subjects brought up for discussion.

C. OF C. MEMBERS
AT RECEPTION WEEKS

Secretary and Mrs. Sanders, President Jesse Smith, Vice President W. E. Hewitt, and his sister, Mrs. Wouten of Chicago, on Monday evening were guests at the banquet given by the Los Angeles chamber of commerce at Hotel Ambassador in honor of "Secretary Weeks. Covers were laid for about five hundred. In his fine talk which was the chief address of the evening, Secretary Weeks dwelt on the peace time work of the army and its important activities at the present time.

COUNCILMAN HORN
ASKS ACTION ON HAND BILLS

Learns Out of Town Merchants Pay License to Litter Lawns Here

Councilman Horn told the city council last night that he thought something should be done to stop littering on the front yards with hand bills. City Clerk Van Vleet reminded the council that body passed an ordinance a long time ago permitting local merchants to distribute bills free, and for outsiders to pay a license. Several of the outside merchants are now paying for this privilege. It was decided to drop the matter temporarily.

On motion of Councilman Kimlin, City Manager Reeves was instructed to employ a special license collector.

One thousand employees of the Southern California Gas company will picnic at the Glendale-Verdugo park on June 30, providing the city council is able to secure permission from the owners of the property for the use of the park on that day.

A communication asking that the gas company workers be granted the privilege to use the park was received by the Glendale council Monday night. The councilmen expressed themselves as being unable to promise use of the park, but City Manager Reeves was instructed to confer with the owners of the property to see if the park can be secured. He is then to communicate with S. C. Singer, manager of the local branch of the company, from whom the application was received.

Attorney Morrow reported that the case of Winifred S. Martin vs. the City of Glendale will come up in the Superior court Thursday and he requested that Attorney Hartley Shaw be retained to assist him in the case. This request was granted. This case has to do with the laying of the gas mains in Verdugo Woodlands.

A request was made by tenants along the first alley west of Grand boulevard, from Harvard to Wilson, asking that it be sprinkled every day in order to keep down the dust. City Manager Reeves was instructed to inform the petitioners that they would pay for the oil and laying the city will do the work, it being considered too expensive to sprinkle the alley daily.

A communication from the labor organizations of Glendale asking that the council take steps in connection with the securing of the high school grounds for civic center purposes was received. The communication was filed.

NIGHT HIGH CLASS
DEFEATS POLICE
AND FIREMEN

First Practice Game of Twilight Baseball Held on School Grounds

The first practice game of indoor baseball under Community Service was held on the newly lighted baseball diamond of Glendale Union high school last night when the police and firemen's team met defeat by a score of about two to one at the hands of the night school class. The game was very interesting and six innings were played. Tonight the American Legion team will play that of the Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock and tomorrow night the teams from Newton Electric company and the postal employees will meet.

After the series of practice games, a regular schedule will be outlined. R. E. Tucker, local Community Service executive, states that there is still an opportunity for other teams to sign up and asks that registration be made at his office in the Citizens' building.

Mr. Tucker states that there is to be organized a boys' baseball league as soon as there is a demand for same. Any boy who can organize a full team of boys under sixteen years of age should report to Mr. Tucker's office and games will be scheduled.

TEACHERS' CLUB TO MEET ON JUNE 12

The Teachers' club of Glendale will have its next and final meeting of the season, June 12 at Santa Monica in the late afternoon where, at a picnic session, officers for the coming year will be elected who will constitute an executive board as follows: President, vice president, secretary, treasurer and four committee heads. Paul Webb has been the efficient president the past year. The club will also consider amendments to its constitution.

LITTLE MARY GIBBS
SUSPECTED OF BEING
AGAIN IN GLENDALE

Is Mary in town again? The police would like to know. Yesterday Robert Hankey, aged 10, and Stuart Forsythe, called at the police department with a horse, which, they said was turned over to them by a girl. Upon being questioned the boys gave a description which tallied identically with that of Mary Gibbs of Los Angeles, who has been found in Glendale several times during the past two months.

The belief that the visitor was Mary is strengthened by the fact that Mrs. Gibbs called the Glendale police yesterday asking if the local authorities had seen anything of her girl.

Greenleaf Drug Co. Remembers "Pendroy Family"

As a token of the kindly feelings existing between the owners of the Greenleaf Drug Company and Pendroy's Department Store, a very pleasant surprise was arranged by F. E. Sorensen, proprietor of the Greenleaf Pharmacy, as a compliment on the occasion of Pendroy's anniversary.

Late Saturday afternoon, when employees at Pendroy's were preparing to take their departure, announcement was made that 70 quarts of "brick ice cream" had arrived, each quart bearing a "P" upon its surface. Every employee was presented with one of these packages of cooling refreshment upon leaving for home, Manager Smith of Pendroy's announcing that the gift was made through the courtesy of the Greenleaf Pharmacy.

Mr. Pendroy received the following letter of congratulation: "To Our Neighbor, The Pendroy Family:

"The Greenleaf Drug Company, across the corner, congratulates you on your success of the past year. 'May the coming years be even more successful and prosperous. We are sending a token to express our appreciation of your kindness and good fellowship. Sincerely,

(Signed) "F. E. SORENSEN." In telling of this instance of kindly feeling between the two firms, R. H. Smith stated that he feels that the anniversary sale which was conducted at Pendroy's was a decided success. "It proved conclusively that the people of Glendale do read their daily papers, which was proved by the wonderful response to the advertisements placed with them."

GLENDALIANS TO ATTEND CONCLAVE
OF SHRINERS

To Leave by Special Los Angeles County Train on May 31

Glendale is to be represented at the great conclave of Shriners which is to open in Washington, D. C., June 4. A delegation, said to be the largest ever sent east from Los Angeles County is leaving by special train May 31 and several Glendalians will be passengers. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dudley will be of the contingent, and Mr. Wade. C. A. Redmond of 331 West Harvard is securing reservations for those who will go, also for an excursion of Southern Californians who are bound for Europe which will leave on the 29th. Both excursion parties will make stops by the way at Denver, Salt Lake City, Grand Canyon, Chicago, Niagara and New York.

Mr. Redmond has charge of the excursionists leaving the 29th and will be accompanied by Mrs. Redmond who will sail from New York on the steamer Bengalia June 5, to visit her old home and friends in Sweden and attend the Swedish Jubilee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley will be away about three months touring the east and making stops in Washington, New York and Chicago.

GLENDAL STORES
RE-NUMBERING IS BEING CONSIDERED

The Glendale council is considering the proposition of re-numbering the stores in the business district of the city. The purpose is to eliminate the half numbers, thereby making the locating of any business establishment a much more easy matter.

At the present time there is a number for every 25 feet. When the new system is put in operation there will be one number for each 12.5 feet.

In order that the wishes of the merchants in connection with this matter may be expressed, the council is asking for suggestions.

HIGH FRESHMEN TO PLAY SOUTH PASADENA

Today Glendale high's freshman team will compete with representatives of South Pasadena in a baseball game for the championship of the Central league. Thus far Glendale's team has lost but one game. If it wins this time, it will capture the pennant. The game is set for 3:30 on Morse field and will probably draw a big crowd of baseball fans.

MERCHANTS AND THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS
UNITE TO PRESENT SURVEY OF GOODS AND PRICES
PREVALENT AMONG THE STORES OF THE CITY

First Exposition of Actual Trading Conditions in Glendale, Consolidated Presentation in the Saturday Issue for Mid-Summer Buying of Seasonable Goods

"Shop on Monday," among bargains such as never before seen in Glendale, will begin as a weekly event in Glendale, next Monday, as the result of the co-operative action of Glendale's leading merchants and the Glendale Daily Press.

All the advertisements of these merchants will be found in the Saturday issue of the Glendale Daily Press. These advertisements will show that profits have been cut to the core—and the core removed.

There are plenty of bargains in Glendale, every day, for the shopper who will search for them. On Monday it will not be necessary to look for them. They will be all advertised in the Glendale Daily Press Saturday by those merchants who are co-operating with the Glendale Daily Press in presenting them in black and white of printer's ink.

Not that Monday is to be a bargain day, in an intensive competition among the stores to offer the best trades in the city. It is to be a day when all the merchants entering the spirit of the hour will offer a variety of goods calculated to give the average prices prevalent in his store, and thus by the associations of merchants, present the average prices of all reasonable goods in all lines in Glendale.

These prices will be found surprisingly low, much lower than two, or even one year ago. They will show the return to normal of all retailing, which is nationwide and present the world reaction to re-established post war conditions. Therefore, the Glendale Daily Press, Saturday, will present a true price barometer of the trading conditions here which will compare favorably with that of any community in the United States.

While these prices may be found in the Glendale stores every day, in many instances, the effort to make Monday a shopping day is to give an adequate idea of the shopping service here.

Urging in the campaign that is to mean, it is predicted, more for the business interests of Glendale than any other project ever endorsed here, scores of business men have designated willingness to aid in the establishment of Monday as the big shopping day of the week.

In order to co-operate with this move on the part of the merchants, the Daily Press is inaugurating the Glendale Monday Shopping Movement, announcing the values to be had in local stores Monday, the merchants to make the announcements in Saturday's issue. This is planned as a permanent aid to business here, and to the buyer who wishes a guide to shopping in Glendale.

Favoring the Saturday shopping section, and the Monday shopping day, numerous merchants have expressed their opinions.

R. H. Smith, manager of Pendroy's, said:

RECEPTION COMMITTEE
FOR GLENDALE EXPOSITION
IS CALLED TO MEETING

Secretary Sanders is asking members of the reception committee, which is to welcome officials from Los Angeles and Santa Monica on the evening of May 25, to meet at the chamber at 6:30 and escort the visitors to the big tent where the Merchants' Exposition will be formally inaugurated with ceremonies which will begin at 7 o'clock. The reception committee includes members of the city council, of the chamber of commerce directorate, and of the Credit Men's association.

JACK HUNTLEY REPORTED

MORNING AT HOSPITAL

The condition of J. G. Huntley was a little better this morning, according to information given out at the Glendale Research hospital. Mr. Huntley was seriously injured last week when horseback riding, which necessitated a major operation.

LONG BEACH TO SEND BAND TO GLENDALE

Mr. S. F. DuRoe, superintendent of public recreation at Long Beach, has written R. E. Tucker, executive secretary of Community Service of Glendale, that Long Beach's famous band will favor Glendale with a visit on the evening of Saturday, June 9.

The arrangements for bringing the Long Beach aggregation here were made by Community Service in line with their program to draw in surrounding communities into its program of community music.

This event promises to be one of the outstanding ones of the year. Other features will be included in the program that Long Beach will bring to this city.

PASADENA LODGE
OFFICIALS PAY
ELKS VISIT

Officials of the Pasadena Lodge, headed by Exalted Ruler Hal Reynolds, paid an unexpected visit to the regular lodge session of the Glendale Elks, No. 1289 last night, which was attended by about 300 members. Fifteen applicants were elected to membership by initiation and demit.

James Appfel, exalted ruler of the local lodge, with the assistance of Wm. Bode and Herbert Henning, had arranged a surprise feature of entertainment, whereby community singing was introduced to the club members. The numbers sung were parodies on some of the popular songs, written around the work of the Glendale lodge. The members entered into the spirit of the songs and enjoyed this feature.

On Saturday night the Glendale lodge will hold a dance, which will be for Elks and their ladies only. Admission will be $1 per couple and will be for the benefit of the band.

Initiation will take place at the meeting next Monday night. A special feature of entertainment is also planned for that evening, when a mixed minstrel show of colored people from Pasadena will put on the program following the regular lodge meeting.

BURGLAR VISITS
OAKMONT CLUB

The office of the Oakmont Country Club in the Monarch building was entered last night or this morning and a new Remington typewriter and a Sunstrand adding machine were stolen. Entrance to the office was effected by means of a passkey. Nothing but the two machines was touched.

The robbery took place between 6 o'clock last night and 9 o'clock this morning. The Glendale police have been notified and are now working on the case.

LOCAL FORCES TO AID MUSIC CLUB
CONCERT

Entertainment to Provide Deserving Students' Fund Is Proving Popular

Splendid support is being given by the various organizations of Glendale to the concert Thursday night at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium by the Glendale Music Club for the benefit of the scholarship fund that is to enable promising young artists to continue their musical education. Tickets have been going very fast and those who have not yet purchased may secure them at once from the music stores. Two hundred and fifty-three dollars have been raised thus far.

The Glendale High School Teachers' Club has guaranteed $100 worth of tickets. The Tuesday Afternoon Club has donated $35 and members will attend. Other organizations who have guaranteed various amounts for tickets include: Chamber of Commerce, $25; music section of Tuesday Afternoon Club, $17.50; Madrigal Club, $15; Rotary Club, $11.75; Chapter B.A. P. E. O. No. 110; Chapter A.H. P. E. O. No. 110; Chapter C.J. which is the smallest P. E. O. chapter in Glendale, $5; J. G. Huntley, $25.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music Club, is in receipt of a letter from the local Modern Woodmen lodge, stating that it was highly in accord with the efforts of the music club and that its members could be depended on to materially assist.

In addition to the local artists who will appear, the program will include numbers by Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer-pianist; Margaret Messer Morris, vocalist; and Carl Gantvoort, vocalist.

Mr. Cadman is greatly esteemed in Glendale and the members of the Music Club are proud of the fact that they had the first opportunity of presenting Mr. Cadman to Glendale at the beginning of the club organization.

Charles Wakefield Cadman had what he feels is the most touching tribute paid to him by a young lady, Miss Elaine Anderson of Los Angeles, who has written a poem, dedicated to him after hearing his recent recital at the University Club, when he presented a program of his own compositions, assisted by Margaret Messer Morris, soprano. The poem, which was published in the Los Angeles Times, is as follows:

To you, within whose heart doth lie
Sweet songs of waters and blue sky,
At autumn's glory, spring's rebirth,
The beauty and the joy of earth;
Who through your genius hands can bring
Their message like a human thing,
In rippling chords of melody
Or notes of thrilling ecstasy;
You speak the souls of races come,
In living notes their stories come,
And painted by your music's brush,
We sense the dawn and hear the thrush.

Sing on—the old world needs your song,
Through love and joy the heart grows strong;
You are those that cannot die
While hearts are young and hopes are high,
Joy, sorrow, passion, pain and mirth,
You touch the heartstrings of the earth.

THREE INJURED
IN AUTO CRASH

Mr. and Mrs. Sable and Daughter Victims of Woman's Driving

Louis J. Sable, Mrs. L. J. Sable and Virginia Sable, all of 507 West Milford, were injured in an automobile accident which occurred at the corner of Verdugo and Burr, at 1:10 o'clock Monday afternoon. The machines were piloted by Mr. Sable and Mrs. George E. Gardina, 3537 Vermont way, Los Angeles. The injured ones were aided by A. W. Williams of Glendale and were taken to their home.

Sable claims that Mrs. Gardina, at the corner, crashing into his car before he could get out of the way, according to police records.

MEN'S NIGHT AT BAPTIST CHURCH IS SCHEDULED

Tonight is "Men's Night" at the evangelistic services at the First Baptist Church. Special music will be furnished by the male chorus, and ninety-nine men will sing "The Ninety-and-Nine." Women are invited to be present as cordially as the men. Miss Stockton will speak on the subject, "Memories of Father."

A large crowd attended the service last night at the church and were delighted with the music furnished by the vested choir from Long Beach. An extension was placed to the platform to accommodate those attending. A solo was contributed by Warren Blair of this choir, and the choir sang two inspiring chorus numbers. The service was closed with an impressive solo by Miss Rita Gould. Miss Gould is in charge of the music for the special meetings this week and will sing a solo each evening.

Taking for her text the first verse of the 14th Psalm, "The fool hath said in his heart 'There is no God,'" Miss Amy Lee Stockton spoke last night on "A Fool's Creed." "The universality of belief," said the evangelist, "proves that no one but a fool would make such a statement. Among the lowest tribes in all the world, and among all peoples there has been a belief in a Supreme Being and in the immortality of the soul. And even some who have denied God with their lips have proved their faith by their actions. Let death confront an individual, or sickness lay hold of the life, or some great crisis suddenly arise and the attitude toward God is changed from rebellion to submission, and hearts will cry out for mercy who have refused to endorse His praise."

MONDAY SHOPPING, FIRST PRICE EXPOSITION IN THE CITY, STARTS MAY 28

roy's, stated: "Eight years of experience in Pasadena with one of the leading firms of that city, showed me that it was most difficult to get Pasadena people to buy on Mondays. Having this in mind, the merchants of Pasadena about a year ago adopted the policy of advertising specials in the Saturday evening papers for Monday's sale, which proved successful from the start. I know that up to the present time, these merchants enjoy a brisk Monday patronage. Therefore, I heartily endorse this move on the part of the merchants to make Monday our shopping day. I would be willing to wager any merchant in Glendale that he will do more business on Monday than on any two Mondays previous, after this enterprise has been established."

"I am not familiar with the conditions of Glendale business on Mondays," stated Royal Sawtelle, secretary of the New England Furniture company, whose place of business was formally opened Saturday. "But I firmly believe that with 25 or 30 merchants announcing their Monday specials at the same time, it will not be long before there will be three times the present number of shoppers on the streets on Mondays."

"It can be done, and further than that, it is done," said M. Alexander of the Harry Moore Company, Inc., in regard to the Monday shopping day. "I can see no reason why the merchants of Glendale, through this concerted effort, will not be able to absolutely sell the public on the idea. The women, especially, have been schooled in the idea that Monday is the best day to shop, and this means that they will be able to inform themselves upon the offers to be found in the stores."

"The Glendale merchants need this special Monday shopping day," said F. C. Butler, proprietor of the Lewis Jewelry company store, who is also a member of the Credit Men's association. "As merchants, we welcome this opportunity to bring our goods to the knowledge of the Glendale people. Just as alkaline must be taken to offset the effects of a dose of acid, so the merchants must take steps to offset the effects of an outside publication, as there is no way of preventing its distribution."

"I have had experience in two different coast cities," stated C. H. McBurney, manager of Ferber's department store, also a new business establishment of large proportions here. "I find that the Monday shopping day is going strong. In Long Beach they are especially well organized, and also in Santa Monica and Ocean Park. The best business in the week comes on Mondays."

"I am sure the business men want to make it their object to do everything in their power to enlarge local trade," stated Charles S. McDuffee, owner of the men's clothing store on Maryland and Broadway. "It is the merchants' faith in Glendale that is making Glendale."

"Women all over, I believe, realize that Monday is the best day in the week for shopping," stated Mrs. G. B. Leavins, of the Gingham Shoppe, 328 West Broadway. "It has been inaugurated in Los Angeles, and all that the women will need here, will be the announcement that the merchants are to adopt the same policy in Glendale."

HUGE PROFITS IN FOX FARMS

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 22.—Blue fox farming on the islands off the southern coast of Alaska is becoming a highly prosperous industry, according to reports of representatives of the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, who made a trip of investigation to Alaska recently. A breeding pair of blue foxes is worth from $250 to $400, and some breeders sell from twenty to thirty pairs in a season. A pelt is worth from $150 to $250.

Some of the island farms are near the mainland, others 100 miles or more from the shore; many are timbered and have abundant shrubbery, while others, the reports state, are almost entirely barren.

White and blue foxes are not different species, but merely two phases of the same fox. The white is the normal winter coat of one phase, and in summer the coat of the white fox is brown and tawny. The fox which is dark bluish gray or maltese in winter and sooty gray or brown in summer is an abnormal representative of the same species. Most of the blue foxes in Alaska have come from the Pribilof Islands, or from Siberia. Ranchers usually have from three pairs to twenty. Occasionally one hundred pairs are found on a single ranch.

The number of pups raised per breeding pair per year is difficult to determine. The majority of breeders seem to think they raise four or five a litter, but as the foxes run wild and their dens are only found by chance, an exact count cannot be taken. The highest priced skins are those of a dark maltese color, well furred and carrying a high percentage of guard hairs.

The Biological Survey suggests two methods of improving blue fox stock. One is to examine the foxes more carefully during the pelting season and then select the best types as breeders. The other is to kill off the inferior types and replace them with new and better foxes, either bought or traded.

The proper feeding of blue foxes during the winter is undoubtedly the greatest problem the rancher has to solve. The foxes eat raw, smoked or salted fish, the last being soaked in water ten or twelve days to freshen it. Corn meal and other cereals are mixed with fish and cooked before feeding. The feed is scattered along the beach, or put in feed houses located in different parts of the island. The wet, damp climate makes it practically impossible to dry and preserve foods properly.

Methods of feeding can be improved in many ways. Most ranchers give too much feed and do not distribute it at regular intervals, and some do not give enough attention to sanitation. For purposes of study and investigation to aid those in the industry, the survey is planning to engage in the production of blue foxes at its experimental fox farm at Keesville, New York.

CAPTAIN HOBSON TO SPEAK HERE

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson is visiting Glendale Wednesday and will lecture on the effects of narcotics and tobacco before high school and city teachers and others interested at 4:15, under the auspices of the high school trustees and the board of education.

Next week is "Anti-Narcotic Week," and inasmuch as the state law requires the public school teachers to instruct their pupils in the injurious effects of narcotics and tobacco, the lecture is expected to provide material for the special instruction to be given next week.

BOLD OFFENDER TURNS UP AGAIN IN SOUTH AFRICA

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, May 22.—Information has reached London from Johannesburg of the arrest there of Carl Ludwig von Veltheim. It is said that South Africa wants to get rid of him and that he is to be deported.

Nothing has been heard from von Veltheim since 1918, but none of those who are familiar with his career are surprised that he has turned up again. There has been enough of crime, adventure and romance in his life to provide material for a dozen exciting works of fiction. He is pre-eminently cut out for an adventurer. Had he lived in an earlier time he might have been a very successful pirate or privateer or revolutionist. He is built on a big scale and is well equipped with brains, audacity and courage, and has not been a bit squeamish about ways and means.

Von Veltheim is six feet four inches in height and a strikingly handsome man. A previous marriage never stopped him from marrying another woman, nor when he was hard up did he hesitate to run very serious financial risks to raise the cash he needed. He was born in Brunswick 66 years ago and started out as a sailor, but he found that life on the ocean was too monotonous to suit his tastes. He abandoned the sea by the simple and summary process of deserting his ship, and took to the land.

Carl Ludwig first came into the limelight of publicity on an international scale by shooting Wolf Joel, a nephew of the famous Baroness Barmat, at Johannesburg in 1908. It was after he had called at Joel's house and demanded money of him, which Joel refused. When charged with the murder he secured acquittal on the plea of self defense.

But, "easy money" had now obtained a fatal attraction for Von Veltheim. Some years later he called at Solomon Barmat Joel's office in London and threatened to do for Joel what he had done for the Barmats. He was then in the place in the world to raise money in that way, and Von Veltheim was sentenced to 20 years penal servitude.

Public opinion generally condemned the sentence as too severe and Von Veltheim was released after serving 15 years and interned as an enemy alien. In 1918 he was repatriated to Germany and from there made his way again to South Africa.

WESTERN ATHLETES LOOK FOR VICTORY AT PHILADELPHIA

[By Associated Press]

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—Coach Walter Christie's University of California track team, coming to Franklin Field next Friday and Saturday to defend the Intercollegiate A. A. A. title they won in 1921 and successfully defended last year at Harvard Stadium, probably will find keener and greater opposition among the Eastern stars this year than they have before.

The Californians, strongest last year in the field, are without their crack shot-putter, Jack Merchant, but Christie has improved his other field stars and has expressed confidence, after early victories over Stanford, Southern California and Nebraska, that his men will keep the A. A. A. title on the state until they have won the event five times, enough to obtain permanent possession of the championship cup.

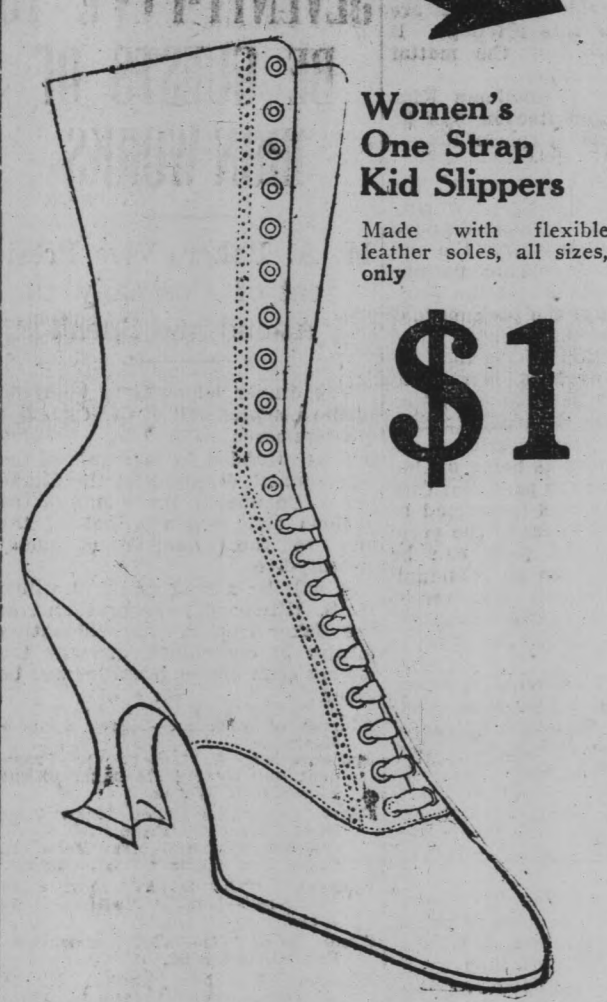

California is strongest this year in the discus, shotput and javelin, pole vault and two-mile run. Dor-

THE KEMPERS TO MARK FIFTIETH WEDDED YEAR

Surrounded by Daughters and Sons-in-Law, Will Receive Friends

Fifty years ago, on May 27, 1873, at the old homestead at Gallaudet, Ind., the wedding of Joseph William Kemper and Margaret Elizabeth Nixon was solemnized.

Thirty-six years of their wedded life was spent in or near Indianapolis. For the past fourteen years they have resided in Southern California, eleven years in Los Angeles and the last three years in Glendale.

Next Sunday, May 27, their golden wedding will be celebrated with a family noon dinner given by their three daughters: Mrs. Thos. A. Coppock, Mrs. H. A. Conger and Mrs. C. W. Farmer, at the home of Mrs. H. A. Conger on North Brand.

After 3 p. m., Mr. and Mrs. Kemper will receive their friends in their own home at 1017 Melrose avenue.

HIGH STUDENTS VISIT BUSINESS SHOW IN L. A.

Quite a delegation of students in the commercial department of Glendale high, accompanied by J. Rhea Baker, head of the department, Mrs. Ballard, Miss Switzer, Mrs. Davies and Miss Murphy, observed "Commercial Day" at the Business Show which is being held at Praeger park in Los Angeles, the party numbering about 30.

The purpose of the excursion was to afford the students opportunity to see the various machines that are used in business offices, and it proved quite educational.

Saturday afternoon Miss Vella Bottsford will represent the department in a typewriting contest which is being put on at 2:30 at the Business Show. She represented the school in the contest staged at Long Beach in April.

COOKMANS BECOME GRANDPARENTS

Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Cookman of 638 North Louise street received a telegram this morning from Morgantown, West Virginia, stating that their daughter, Mrs. Earl J. Thomson, had given birth Monday morning to twin daughters. Mr. Thomson is the world famous athlete. Mrs. Thomson will be remembered as Miss Ann Cookman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall of 127 1/2 West Cerritos, left at 10 o'clock this morning for Arrowhead Lake, where they will endeavor to "bag" some wary trout. They expect to return to Glendale Friday night.

GERTRUDE GIBBS HEADS BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB

Succeeds Miss Corinne Orff as Executive, on Her Resignation

The home of Dr. Caroline Paine-Jackman was the scene of a very pleasant gathering Monday night when she entertained the retiring cabinet of the Business Women's club and the incoming members at an informal at home, at which refreshments followed a short semi-business session during which the treasurer reported cash on hand, and the retiring president, Dr. Laura Brown reported concerning club furnishings which had been sold or stored pending the securing of new permanent headquarters.

Delegates who are to represent the club at the annual meeting of the County Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs which is to meet for dinner at Paulina's in Los Angeles Wednesday evening at 6:30 were announced as follows: Dr. Laura Brown, Miss Lucile Crowell, corresponding secretary-elect; Miss Edna Platt, who was elected recording secretary of the club after Miss Ethel Ford had announced it would be impossible for her to fill the office; Miss Ethel Ford, Mrs. Peggy Warner, Mrs. Ethel Ruder, Miss Helen Tupper, Miss Alice McCoy, Miss F. G. Bibbs, and Dr. Early.

Plans for the coming year were informally discussed and the resignation of Miss Corinne Orff as president was submitted by Dr. Brown. The cabinet then elected Miss Gertrude Gibbs to fill the vacancy and announcement was made that officers-elect would be installed at the meeting of May 29 when a short program would be given and followed by adjournment to the Merchants' Exposition in a body.

The new cabinet will hold its first meeting the evening of June 5 in the rooms of the Glendale Commercial School at 224 South Brand, the use of which has been generously donated to the club.

MRS. DIBBERN ENTERTAINS MAH JONGG CLUB PARTY

Mrs. Arthur Dibbern was hostess to the members of the Pung Chow Mah Jongg club which met last night at the home of Mrs. James Apple, 947 North Maryland avenue. High score was made by Mrs. E. C. Pendroy. The members of the club are: Mrs. Pendroy, Mrs. James Apple, Mrs. George B. Pratt, Mrs. Wilbur Boothby, Mrs. Ed Herling, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Geo. Smith and Mrs. Arthur Dibbern. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Boothby.

GLENDALE PHYSICIANS' CLUB TO HEAR ATTORNEY

Assistant District Attorney Fricks will be the after dinner speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Glendale Physicians' club, which will meet at 12:15 Wednesday at the Glen Inn, covers being laid for about fifty. Attorney Fricks, it will be remembered, prosecuted the case against Clara Phillips on behalf of the state. His theme on this occasion will be "Medical Jurisprudence." It is expected to be a very interesting session.

G. A. R. POST AND AUXILIARY MEETING The usual meeting all day of N. P. Banks post and Women's Relief corps, will be held at G. A. R. hall on South Glendale avenue, Friday of this week.

GLENDALE P. T. A. TO HAVE FULL PROGRAM

A full program is in store for the meeting of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school P. T. A., which will be held at the school house Thursday afternoon, May 24, at 3 o'clock.

The regular board meeting will take place at 2 o'clock. Following this meeting, reports from all committees are to be heard and the election of officers will take place. Raymond C. Dunlap, superintendent of attendance in the Los Angeles schools, will be the speaker of the afternoon, taking up some phases of the work of interest to both parents and teachers. The school orchestra will present two numbers.

MRS. REDMOND IS GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. C. A. Redmond, who is leaving next Tuesday on the big excursion of European tourists, directed by her husband, will be the guest of honor at the meeting of a newly organized bridge club of which she is a member and which will be entertained by Mrs. L. C. Wolfe on Thursday. A luncheon will be followed by cards, the other members of the club being Mesdames Will Tanner, Harry McCartney, C. M. Young, James Endicott, John Munn, Leo Berndt, W. Kimball of Los Angeles, Payson Hayward, J. F. Clark and J. E. Keleher.

BRIDE AND GROOM-TO-BE ARE GUESTS

Miss Jeanette McLeannan and Joe Wilson were guests of honor at an informal dinner given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harrison at their home, 323 North Maryland avenue, at which covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Downing of Santa Ana, Miss Ellen Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lenox, the host and hostess and the honorees, who are to be married in June.

St. Mark's Men to Meet Wednesday

The members of St. Mark's church men's club will meet Wednesday evening, May 23, at 8, when an interesting entertainment will be given and light refreshments will be served free, at the conclusion of which officers will be elected for the coming year. All visiting brothers are extended a cordial invitation to attend and get acquainted. The club will be entertained by Harry James with monologues and phonograph records, also an interesting talk by Dr. John Gunnison on "Eyesight, its Care and Preservation," also songs by Mr. Anna. It is hoped a goodly number will turn out to enjoy this last of the season meeting.

LIEUT. AND MRS. YOUNG ARE GUESTS IN GLENDALE

Lieutenant L. T. Young of the U. S. Cayana, and Mrs. Young, who have just returned from Puget Sound and Vallejo, were guests at a family dinner given by the parents of Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Sayre of South Central avenue, Monday evening. The lieutenant leaves the last of the week on a northern cruise which will keep him away about three months.

DR. AND MRS. YOUNG GIVE PARTY AT RANCH

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Young of 1007 North Brand boulevard entertained a party of friends on Sunday at their ranch, "Sierra Vista" in Mini anyon. Today Mrs. Young is a guest at a bridge party being given by Mrs. Reithman of Oxford avenue, Los Angeles.

ALPHA DELPHIAN CHAPTER TO MEET

The members of the Alpha Delphian chapter of Glendale will hold their regular monthly meeting at the library on Thursday morning, May 24, at 10 o'clock. There will be a business meeting with election of officers. All members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Lyda Dahlberg of Cambridge, Ill., is the guest of Miss Guila Darling and Mrs. Alta Bryan at 108 South Everett street. She is touring Southern California and expects to spend the greater part of her time in Glendale, as she considers this the finest little city she has visited.

CHAPTER L. OF P. E. O.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY Chapter L. of P. E. O. will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ann Bartlett of 333 West Broadway. An enjoyable afternoon is planned and all members are urged to be present.

STEREOPTICON SLIDES FOR GLENDALE HIGH

One of the features of the program presented before the convention of high school principals at Yosemite was a stereopticon exhibit of plans and elevations of new high schools which have recently been built in the state, each principal who has provided the slides explaining them. George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale high, expects to be in the line light next year when he will be able to show slides of Glendale's new plant.

Mrs. W. H. Farrall of 550 E. Palmer, had as her guest, Sunday, Mrs. Elizabeth Shockey of San Francisco.

MRS. RALSTON TO BE HONORED BY BARD SECTION

Appreciation of Her Dramatic Work to Be Expressed at Party

Plans for a party to be given June 6 in honor of Mrs. H. C. Ralston were made at the regular meeting of the Shakespeare section held yesterday at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse. Mrs. H. C. Ralston is dramatic director of the section and the party, which is to occur on her birthday anniversary, is being given in appreciation of the splendid work she has done. The party will be open to members of the Shakespeare section, their husbands, and each lady may bring two guests.

Mrs. H. C. Vandewater and Mrs. Chester Kling were the hostesses at yesterday's meeting. The study of Henry VIII was completed under the instruction of Mrs. Mazie Garrett. Mrs. Walter Jones was re-elected curator of the section for another year and Mrs. H. C. Vandewater was elected secretary-treasurer.

The final meeting of the section will be held next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At that time the members will be assigned their parts for the play, "The Twelfth Night," which is to be presented by the section early next club year. Every member of the section is requested to be present. Arrangements will also be made for the members to make their own costumes.

WAR MOTHERS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers will meet Wednesday at 2 p. m. at Odd Fellows' hall to make final arrangements for the booth they are to have in the Merchants' Exposition. As this will be an important business session it is desirable that every member should be present.

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY CHAPTER TO MEET

The Mrs. George O. Robinson chapter of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. S. C. Wheeler of 1125 East Harvard. The members will bring box lunches. An interesting program is planned for the afternoon.

COMMANDERY HOLDS ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT

The annual "ladies' night" banquet and entertainment given by the Glendale Commandery of Knights Templar, was held last night at Masonic Temple.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

The members of Rev. Kelso's class of the La Crescenta Community church, gave a most delightful surprise shower for Miss Beatrice Volker at the home of Miss Adele Coke last week. Games and music were features of the evening.

The Campfire Girls of La Crescenta held their first meeting last Friday evening at the home of their chosen guardian, Mrs. E. E. Murdock. Those present were Mary Ann Howard, Margaret Brown, Sarah Goldenberg, Zella Dunlop, Adele Coke and Irene Murdock. Another meeting will be held this Friday evening, in order that other girls not present at the last meeting and wishing to join may do so.

Baptist Mission Increases Its Work

[By Associated Press] KANSAS CITY, May 22.—Growth in every department of Home Mission work among Southern Baptists is indicated in the annual report of the Home Mission Board presented to the Southern Baptist convention in session here, by Dr. B. D. Gray, corresponding secretary.

This report showed that 64 missionaries had been employed during the past year among the foreigners of the south, resulting in 664 baptisms, the organization of 11 new Sunday schools and eight new churches; 13 workers were employed among the Indians where 111 baptisms were reported, two new churches were built and eight buildings repaired. Among the negroes 27 workers were employed in co-operation with the National Baptist convention, resulting in 2368 baptisms, the organization of 11 churches and 67 Sunday schools, the erection of 31 church houses and the repair of 90 others.

In the evangelistic department where 28 workers were employed, a total of 17,452 additions to the churches were reported, setting a new average for these workers of 623.

A total of 94 local congregations were aided in the completion of their building projects by the church extension department of the board, bringing the total number of churches aided to 1667. The report from Cuba shows that the work is outgrowing the equipment in that country where, in addition to other missionary effort there is a college maintained in Havana and 13 day schools on the island as a whole, with a total of 1094 pupils. The work in Panama also is making good progress, the report showed.

The bent of a man's mind doesn't necessarily prove that he is intellectually crooked.

Legion Auxiliary Hope Chest Is Now on Exhibition on Brand

Hand embroidered dresser scarfs, luncheon sets, lace trimmed novelties to delight the eyes of any bride-elect, are now lavishly displayed in Pendroy's window, as the contents of the hope chest which is to be given to the one holding the right coupon, at the Merchants' Exposition.

The contents of this cedar chest were made by members of the American Legion Auxiliary, and the hope chest and all will be placed on exhibit at the exposition, in the American Legion booth. The coupons entitling one to enter the field for ownership of the hope chest and its dainty handwork are now on sale at Pendroy's, and will be available also at the American Legion booth, following the opening of the exposition, May 25.

PICKFORD'S FILM WINS AUDIENCE AT GLENDALE

A capacity audience at the Glendale theater testified to the consensus of opinion that Jack Pickford has made a truly notable record in his latest picture, "Garrison's Finish," an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release, which opened a three days' engagement at that popular playhouse. From start to finish, "Garrison's Finish" is an exhilarating entertainment of the highest class, being that sort of photoplay which contains every element the general public likes, including romance, intrigue, thrills and well-sustained suspense. The story has to do with Billy Garrison, a jockey, whose successes and failures on the race track form the crux of the intensely interesting plot. As played by Mr. Pickford this title role with Madge Melling, his leading lady, he displays an admirable ability as a romantic actor of real finesse.

High School Heads Return From Meeting

Principal George U. Moyse, and Vice Principal A. L. Ferguson have returned to Glendale with renewed enthusiasm for their work, gathered at the great convention of high school principals held in the Yosemite valley last week. The beauty of the outdoor setting, revealed in the tours and hikes which interspersed the sessions made it an occasion to be long remembered. They say, and the reasons of the melior, his leading lady, he displays an admirable ability as a romantic actor of real finesse.

Mr. Moyse was tremendously impressed by the comprehensive character of the program and the system with which it was so segregated that all could get the things of greatest individual value and appeal. Besides the personal interchange between teachers afforded at round table and section meetings, outstanding representatives of the state board of education and of the state university were present in addition to representatives of the federal government's department of education, which made the general survey of school problems very complete. There were section meetings for the smaller high schools, for those over 200, for junior highs and for junior colleges.

One of the outstanding speakers was Dr. John Adams, professor of education in the University of London, Eng., who gave two valuable talks, one on the value of the intelligence test, and one on the value and dangers of psychoanalysis. Dr. Peterson of the department of education at Berkeley gave an outline of research work he has been doing for the university, showing the financial situation of the school system, cost of instruction, cost of maintenance, tax rates, etc., which was illustrated by statistical charts. He has spent three years' time and considerable money from his own pocket in collecting this data which is to be published at some time in the future as one of the bulletins of the research department of the university.

Dr. Charles Rugh, of the department of education at Berkeley and chairman of the committee of 15 appointed by the State Teachers' association to make a study of high school conditions, also submitted an interesting report. While the teachers were in convention, the boy scout executives from three western states were likewise meeting in the valley and courteous were exchanged by the two conventions. Lorne W. Barclay, national director of education of Boy Scouts of America made a fine talk before the assembled teachers at one of the sessions.

The public instruction of immigrants which will be so seriously affected by the new state budget, was presented by Ethel Richardson, assistant state superintendent of public instruction and Mrs. Anne W. Godfrey, representative of the United States department of education.

An interesting survey of commercial teaching in California public schools was made by E. W. Barnhart, chief of the United States commercial education service. Camp Curry was convention headquarters and many of the principals were accompanied by their wives.

SNEAK THIEVES ADD ZEST TO WEEK END

Many Call and None Are Captured Over
Sunday

The excitement caused by automobile accidents in Glendale over the week end was augmented by the operations of the automobile sneak thieves. Everything considered, the police department of this city had a merry time.

"When I went home last night," said Chief Fraser Monday morning, "I expected to spend a quiet evening at home. Instead, I was up until 12:30 and was working every minute of the time. They sure kept us on our toes."

Following are a few of the incidents which assisted in keeping the local police busy Sunday:

A touring car belonging to Mrs. Caruthers Ratigan, 213 South Cedar street, was stolen at 9:45 o'clock Sunday night. No trace of the stolen machine has been found.

Dan T. O'Brien, who is employed by the George T. Smith company of South Brand, local Overland dealers, reported that someone stole his machine while he was at "The Plantation" at Culver City Sunday night. The authorities of the various cities in this vicinity have been asked to keep a lookout for the machine.

A typewriter of a popular make was stolen from the gasoline station operated by W. E. Green, 225 West Los Feliz road, some time Sunday. Nothing has been learned as to the whereabouts of the missing machine.

A casing, 30x3 1/2, was stolen at 8 o'clock Sunday night from the machine of V. L. Lammers, 400 West Elk, while the car was standing on Brand boulevard between Broadway and Harvard street. It has not yet been located.

Clarence Grant, 609 West Vine street, a delivery boy for The Glendale Daily Press, reported that his bicycle was stolen Saturday afternoon from the rear of the Press building. It has not been located.

A cushion was stolen between 9 and 11 o'clock Sunday night from the automobile belonging to A. J. Brown, 116 South Glendale avenue while the car was standing at

DR. FAREED TELLS OF PRAYER AND FASTING

"Prayer and fasting are the two great essential elements of religious life," said Dr. Fareed at the Church of Divine Revelation, Sunday. "Every one of the great religions have definite ordinances for prayer and fasting. Ritualistic prayers are prescribed for fasting, for it is well understood by all the great teachers that prayer and fasting are spiritual measures and exert a wonderful influence over man's physical, mental and spiritual health."

"Prayer is not merely the utterance of certain words of praises to God, or an affirmation of the good and beautiful. Prayer is a state of being of prayerful attitude in life, an experience of faith, and is essential to an aspiring and inspiring life. Again, prayer is a process of communion between the conscious self and the deeper, higher consciousness of man; a soliloquy of man resulting in his awakening, and a spur to greater effort. Prayer is an attitude and an action; thus a man's deeds of service, his work, his productive labors done aright, represent prayer. He who conscientiously paints a picture well, makes a good shoe, plows a field aright, idealizes prayer because he has unified high desire and action. His prayer is accomplished."

"Fasting stimulates clear thinking; it is therefore of high aid to the best condition for prayer; for high and worthy desire. I recommend and practice fasting one day a week; judiciously practiced it is a healing measure; a preventive of many disorders of the body. Fasting signifies abstinence from undesirable traits and qualities, such as envy, hate and greed."

The subject of Dr. Fareed's next lecture will be, "The Message of Relief."

HIGH SCHOOL WORK FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND SUCCEEDS

Committees at Glendale high who are promoting the sale of tickets for the concert to be given Thursday evening at the Women's club-house in compliment to Miss Hazel Linker, the violinist and senior of Glendale high, report a fine response from the school and from outside organizations. Quite a delegation is coming from Hollywood, the corner of Brand and Wilson. Up to the time of going to press no trace of the missing article had been found.

NEWS OF EAGLE ROCK CITY

LOCAL POLICE ON YEAR OLD SECRET LOOKOUT FOR TWO WOMEN WEDDING NEWS IS TOLD ASSOCIATION MEETS LEAGUE MEMBERS MEET TONIGHT

Glendale Residents Worried About Whereabouts of Two Who Stray Away

The Glendale police department has warned the local officers to be on the lookout for a young girl and a woman who wandered away from their homes in Glendale and have not been located as yet. Relatives of both are worried. Although both have been in the habit of wandering away when not under surveillance, heretofore there has been little difficulty in locating them somewhere in the neighborhood. The Glendale police, unable to find them in Glendale, thought that the local officers might find them wandering about Eagle Rock.

The young girl, who is about 15, was wearing a green sweater when last seen, and when she left home she took with her a police dog with one ear chewed off. The woman is about 30 years old.

ILLINOISANS RALLY

Former residents of Illinois will have a great rally and entertainment at the Music Art Hall, 233 S. Broadway, Friday evening, May 25. Henry J. Brubaker will preside and lead in the community songs. Following the program will be dancing.

All Illinoisans are cordially invited, especially those new arrivals from the Sucker State.

OREGONIANS MEETING

The Oregon State Society will hold its closing meeting for the spring Saturday evening, May 26, in the auditorium, 730 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

Dudley W. Evans, just elected president wants to see his numerous friends on this occasion. Following the program there will be dancing.

The Oregon socials are open to all from that state, with friends.

EAGLE ROCK, May 2.—"A secret will out" has had a difficult time in proving itself a well grounded maxim in the romance of Mrs. W. K. Cowan, Jr., and William Cowan, Jr. Mrs. Cowan will be remembered as Miss Ogilvie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Williams of North Kenilworth avenue. She is a popular member of the Eagle Rock younger set, and for some time has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Geraldine De Remere, in Denver. William Cowan, Jr., of Montefiore avenue, salesman for the Rickenbacker agency, also has a large circle of friends here in Eagle Rock. The culmination of the romance comes as a surprise to all the friends of both.

The date of their first wedding anniversary is almost at hand, and until two days ago not even the parents of the couple knew of the wedding which took place in Santa Ana last July.

After writing her parents the bombshell news so that they would be over the first shock before her arrival here, Mrs. Cowan and Mrs. Geraldine De Remere left Denver for California. They arrived here yesterday morning and Mrs. De Remere is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. I. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Cowan, Jr., are settled in the Arnold Apartments in Los Angeles.

FORMER CAVALRY MEN TURN BANDITS

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 22.—Three confessed members of a band of 20 distillery bandits, all former United States cavalrymen, who battled with guards last Tuesday night in an attempt to rob the Les Samuels distillery at Deatsville, Ky., were captured at Waukegan, Ill., late last night. Two were suffering from severe gunshot wounds received in the engagement.

Second Important Meeting Is Scheduled in City Hall Tonight

The postponed meeting of the Eagle Rock Improvement association will take place tonight in the city hall. This is the second large business meeting of the new organization founded upon a social platform for the betterment of civic affairs. Through pleasant meetings, where a splendid program is always assured, with dinners and social evenings no small part of the club's calendar, this large organization intends to promote the brotherly spirit which teaches people to live well together, and thus brings about the cooperation of all in working for the things which will make Eagle Rock stand out as a wholly desirable and attractive part of Los Angeles.

The meeting tonight is strictly a business meeting, and permanent officers will be elected, and many important matters concerning government and definite aims for the immediate future will be discussed, so it is imperative that the membership and as many of those who would like to become members and find it convenient to attend, are urged to be there. Membership costs one dollar a year.

300 Members Already Reported; Membership Campaigners Active

The local branch of the Clean Government league will meet for the first real business conference of the entire membership in the central school auditorium tonight. This organization has listed over 300 members. There are no dues and anyone interested in the purposes for which the association is formed and willing to support the issues upon which it is founded are solicited for membership.

Officers elected at the first meeting were: Walter E. Hind, chairman; Frank E. Townsend, vice chairman; Mrs. W. E. Bruce, secretary and treasurer; Alfred Thomas, secretary of the executive committee.

The meeting tonight is scheduled for the purpose of discussing aims and plans of the organization for the future, and all those who have signed up for participation in the club work are urged to attend this meeting.

The local section of the improvement association is organized upon the following platform:

To promote the welfare of the citizens and assist in the framing and maintaining of the laws of the government.
To work for any and all legislation that has for its object the welfare of the city, county or state.
To oppose class legislation.
To support officials who stand for clean government.
To offer legal, financial and moral support to protect officials who stand for clean government against unwarranted attacks upon their character or motives in their endeavor to keep the state, county or city clean and efficient through proper government.
To participate in no party politics.
Only non-denominational subjects shall be discussed at any meeting.

The meeting tonight will commence sharply at 8 o'clock with a brief community sing before the business matters are brought up. This organization is a branch of the state organization which has headquarters at Los Angeles.

WILLS ESTATE TO EDUCATION

OAKLAND, Calif., May 22.—Will T. Ewing, 68-year-old negro who died at his Hayward ranch home recently, left his entire estate, valued at approximately $150,000, to the Booker T. Washington Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, according to the terms of his will, on file at the Alameda superior court for probate.

Ewing, born in slavery and set free by President Lincoln's proclamation while he was a small child, was president of the Trinity Mining company of Trinity county, California, owned valuable business property in Oakland, a ranch in Hayward, and property in various parts of Alaska.

As a young man he engaged in the insurance business in Iowa, later moved to Chicago and came west to make his home, arriving in Tacoma, Wash., in 1887. He took up a homestead in Tacoma and later became a member of the police force.

In 1896 Ewing left for Alaska and he was on the ground when gold was discovered. He was one of the first to stake out a claim in the Klondyke, and was well on his way to fortune before the famous rush of gold hunters from the United States arrived. He continued his prospecting in Alaska and in 1903 located a claim that netted him $40,000 in 90 days. He invested his money in Alaska property, purchasing a number of building lots in Fairbanks, which he later sold at a good profit.

Ewing came to Oakland in 1904 and at low figures invested in several large pieces of real estate in the city and along the Foothill boulevard, which since have developed into residential sections. The deceased capitalist was a bachelor and lived alone. It was believed he had no relatives, although a number of persons now claim kinship and a court battle over the estate is anticipated.

EASTERN STAR DANCE IS SET FOR JUNE 2

A dance, under the auspices of the Eastern Star lodge will take place in the Women's club house on June 2. This will be featured by splendid music furnished by a three-piece orchestra that makes a specialty of the genuine syncopation.

IRISH JOCKEY COUNTS HALF CENTURY IN SADDLE

(By Associated Press)
DUBLIN, May 22.—Ireland, long noted for the longevity of its people, has probably produced no rarer specimen of hardihood and "youth" than Harry Beasley, one of its leading jockeys, who is now 72. For more than half a century Beasley has been winning some of the greatest races on the Irish turf. He attributes his long life to abstemious eating, frugal drinking, abstention from smoking, ten hours of sleep, and "trust in God."

Timothy Healy, governor-general of Ireland, placed the first bet of his life recently on a horse ridden by this veteran jockey, and won.

LAY ELABORATE PLANS FOR ROUNDUP

Many of Nation's Greatest Riders Coming to Take Part

Elks from all parts of Southern California are getting ready for the annual migration which will be the roundup at Topanga beach this year. The festivities are under the auspices of Santa Monica Elks, No. 996, and will be held June 2 and 3.

Elaborate plans are being made and the affair promises to be one of the greatest fun feasts in the annals of Elksdom. The big feature will be the wild west show with some of the country's greatest cow punchers contesting. Already the entries have started coming in and by the time the show starts the famous Frontier show at Cheyenne will have nothing on what the local Elks have to offer. From queries already received, indications are that several of the "Top Hands" from Pendleton and Cheyenne shows will be on hand as they have written for details and declare their desire of entering the contest.

Another feature of the event will be the "Days of 49" village which is always a big fun event at gatherings of this kind. A regular frontier town will be built with all the necessary dance halls and gambling dens. The old-fashioned bars will be much in evidence with all the old "kick" in everything but the liquid goods, but a trial of dance hall girls will be there to make the merry makers forget that incident of ancient history.

A Rodeo would not be complete without a barbecue so arrangements have been made to cook up five thousand pounds of beef and with plenty of good coffee to wash it down and several other toothsome dishes to help out, the free lunch will be a great attraction in itself.

Special bus service will be inaugurated from the Santa Monica station to the show grounds with ample service to take care of the large crowds.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

By E. R. WAITE, Secretary of Shawnee, Oklahoma, Board of Commerce

THAT real economy in purchasing merchandise is not the original price paid, but the good buy is where a fair price is paid for a good article and for something that will give real service.

THAT reliable stores advertise their goods and if not as represented they make good.

THAT the surest way to do is to buy advertised goods from merchants in your own home city.

THAT the merchants who advertise must sell goods to the same people month after month; their merchandise must be good and their advertising truthful or their reputation for square dealing, likewise their business would soon go to the bow-wows.

THAT newcomers to a city generally buy from the merchant who goes after the business.

That the first thing a newcomer does is study the advertising pages. He looks to see what stores are advertising and visits them first.

THAT they do this because they know that the merchant who advertises shows enterprise and that he appreciates business.

THAT every man in any community is directly responsible for the progress and development of the community in which he lives in proportion to his position.

THAT no man has a right to shirk his share of responsibility toward making his community a better place in which to live and make a living.

THAT money earned in a community should be spent in that community so it can stay and work in that community for the benefit of all.

THAT IF A CITY IS NOT MADE A GOOD CITY IN WHICH TO MAKE A LIVING THAT CITY STANDS A POOR CHANCE TO BE A GOOD CITY IN WHICH TO LIVE

Steamship Captains Are Big Factor In Bettering Foreign Trade Relation

Captain George Rose

New York.

For many years commercial and banking interests in the United States have been endeavoring to obtain a strong foothold in South America; to get a fair share of the business of the Latin-American nations, where a huge and growing market for merchandise of every kind exists and which themselves have to offer a wide variety of agricultural and mineral products. Prior to the World War the progress in obtaining business in South America was slow and difficult. Since the war, however, there has been a most decided increase in the cordial relations, both social and business, between these Latin-American countries and the United States.

It has been generally noticed that in the east coast countries of South America, including Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina, which are served by the big passenger and freight liners of the Munson Steamship Lines, that there has been a big turn in the tide of favor towards Americans and American business.

This is attributed to the fact that since the Munson Line inaugurated this express passenger and freight service to Rio de Janeiro and Santos, in Brazil, Montevideo, in Uruguay, and Buenos Aires in Argentina, over two years ago, the resultant flood of travel from the United States to these countries has strengthened the ties between them and the United States.

This line operates the steamships American Legion, the Pan America, the Western World and the Southern Cross, between New York and the ports named, on a twice-a-week schedule each way, and the officers of the vessels have done all in their power to show the business men with whom they come in contact in the South American ports that not only are United States business interests worthy of the attention of the South American buyer, but that we also desire to purchase the products of the Latin-American countries.

Captain George Rose, commander of the Munson liner Pan America, is especially well known to the big men in the South American ports which his ship visits monthly. An indication of the high esteem in which Captain Rose is held was evidenced recently when, on the occasion of the Captain's fortieth birthday, while his ship was at Buenos Aires, he was entertained by the big and important men in the city at dinner. At this testimonial banquet many members of the Buenos Aires Chamber of Commerce were present. They declared themselves heartily in favor of better business relations with the United States and congratulated the Captain for his part in boosting the products made in this country.

Captain Rose himself is a seaman of unusual ability and the only captain in the American Merchant Marine to hold a Congressional Medal of Honor, of which there were only seven living holders prior to the World War. This decoration, the highest bestowed by the United States, is awarded only for exceptional bravery and was presented to Captain Rose for extraordinary heroism in cutting the cables at Cienfuegos, Cuba, May 11, 1898, and for distinguished conduct in the presence of the enemy in battles on the 13th, 20th, 21st and 22d of June, 1900, while with the relief expedition with Vice-Admiral Seymour.

The first work for which Captain Rose was cited occurred during the Spanish-American War. The other four citations mentioned in connection with his Medal of Honor were the result of his bravery during the Boxer rebellion. During the World War, Captain Rose was commander of a converted cruiser doing coast duty to transport ships. After the war he continued the service of the Munson Line.

THE LEAD POISONED

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Two signs unfailingly indicative of lead poisoning are the so-called wrist-drop and gum line. The former is a complete or partial paralysis of the muscles of the wrist, the latter a fine, dotted blue-black line running along the edge of the gum where it touches the teeth.

The wrist-drop sign is found only in advanced cases. But a distinct weakness of the forearm may be an early symptom. The gum line sign, according to Cabot, is never in evidence in people who have lost their teeth, no matter how seriously poisoned by lead they may be. Cabot also warns physicians, called upon to deal with puzzling cases in which a suspicion of lead poisoning has been raised:

"The lead line may occur only on the inner surface of the teeth, so that a person who does not look for it very carefully won't find it."

Less absolutely indicative but characteristic early signs suggestive of lead poisoning, and to be regarded as probably indicative in the case of persons engaged in painting, plumbing, or other occupations involving a lead hazard, are certain systemic symptoms.

Chief among these are colicky intestinal pains, gastric attacks and nausea. If, in addition, the patient complains of headaches and dizziness, vague pains in the muscles of the thighs, arms or back, a poor appetite, loss of weight and an increasing feeling of tiredness and general weakness, an examination of his blood for possible proof of lead poisoning becomes at once in order.

Again quoting Cabot, with reference to the blood examination:

"With the dyes ordinarily used to stain blood, we get a new picture in the blood of a case of lead poisoning. The smooth, yellow face of the red corpuscle becomes 'stippled,' as if a charge of shot had been fired into it."

Wade Wright further lists, among typical symptoms of lead poisoning, a change in the complexion of the face, which shows some degree of pallor, often of a grayish hue. And he notes that "a slowing of the pulse rate during attacks of colic is occasionally marked."

Treatment obviously has as a prerequisite withdrawal of the patient from possible sources of lead poisoning. If the case is a mild one this alone may suffice to insure a cure, though usually drugs are administered to promote vigorous action of the eliminative organs, and other drugs as needed to mitigate the muscular pains. Iron may be prescribed for the anaemia likely to be present.

And, of course, upbuilding by the hygienic measures of rest, diet, fresh air, plenty of sleep, etc., is to be recommended. Though these will avail little—nothing will avail much—unless and until steps are taken to render further poisoning impossible by removing the patient from the conditions responsible for his ill-health, such conditions as a lead-using occupation, lead-laden water supply, and so forth.

This, it cannot be too strongly emphasized, is of all remedial measures the one most necessary.

MAKING FUTURE FANS OF THE KIDS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 22 (United Press).—Major league club owners have attested to the business sagacity in the minor leagues by paying out over a million dollars for young ball players.

It might not be amiss if the big-time magnates would take a few more business tips from the little fellows.

Syracuse and Newark, in the International league, are letting youngsters into their ball parks this season for a half-fare of 30 cents. Other clubs in the circuit may do the same thing and the stunt may spread to other minor leagues.

While it has been suggested that the major league ball club could build up a generation of fans for future business by letting youngsters in for reduced rates for several years, only the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cleveland Indians have made any serious move with that view in mind.

Club owners are, of course, in the game for money, as all business men are, and because they have not seen fit to fill up their bleacher sections with young boys who could get in for a cut price, it does not follow that they put money above the desire to create a generation of new and loyal fans.

"Youngsters are too hard to handle when they are admitted in large numbers," one of the Giant officials said last season when the subject was being discussed.

"The ordinary youngster will watch the game intently for about five innings and then he will turn to other means of individual entertainment," he said. "They start throwing paper, peanuts, and, in some cases, they have been known to toss soda bottles around in a rather dangerous form of amusement. Then they start playing tag on top and around the seats and there is always a risk that some of them will topple out of the stands and be seriously injured. We have to have them watched by about a dozen special police, and they keep them all busy."

Both the Yanks and the Giants have an arrangement with the public and parochial schools by which a certain number of honor pupils are admitted free to games during the summer vacation months and after that the Giant official was not exaggerating when he pointed out the above difficulties. The kids remain interested for about five innings, and then they start raising Cain.

AMERICAN CHILD HEALTH WORK IS GROWING RAPIDLY

NEW YORK, May 22.—One out of every five persons living outside of the United States and Canada, who have been informed of the formation and plans of the American Child Health association, have asked to become charter members, while here at home the membership has doubled.

That is the inference obtained from analyzing recent membership statistics of the association at its New York office, 370 Seventh avenue. When this association was formed by the amalgamation of the American Child Hygiene association and the Child Health organization of America, and Herbert Hoover accepted the presidency of the new national body, invitations to join it were sent to various educators and public health workers throughout the nation, who at some time had expressed interest in child health work and had sought aid from one of the two former organizations. Responses to these letters of appeal have been encouraging, the officials of the American Child Health association state.

Included in this list of interested persons, were 912 men and women residing outside the United States. Canada headed the list, with 529 names, leaving 383 in foreign countries and island territories. The six countries showing the greatest interest in child health, as it was progressing in the United States, were: England, with 22 correspondents; France, 50; China, 43; India, 25; Japan, 20; and Belgium, 19. Other countries contributing more than ten interested names were: Australia, Italy, Mexico, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, and Alaska. From Yugoslavia, Norway, Argentina, Peru, British West Indies, Virgin Islands, Scotland, Cuba, Chile, Russia, Bulgaria, Estonia, Turkey, Ceylon, Germany, Greece, Holland, Palestine and Korea, two or more persons had written, without solicitation, and from Denmark, Egypt, Haiti, Siam, Sicily, Austria, Sumatra and Bermuda there was one each. Practically all of these persons had received the magazine, "Mother and Child," or some other form of child health literature.

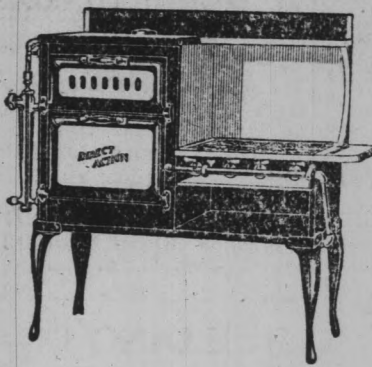

Of the 383 men and women in foreign countries, who have been notified of the founding of the American Child Health association, 78 have already asked to join. This percentage of membership in proportion to the number of persons notified is already greater for foreign countries than it is for the United States, and requests are still coming to the association's headquarters. As the notification was sent out only in February and many of these letters went half way around the globe and into remote districts where mail transportation is slow and uncertain, the association feels that the answers are still coming to the surprising rapidity. In several instances the replies were written on the day that the announcement was received.

If love would only make a man's income go round he wouldn't care anything about the gyrations of the world.

THE KEY TO GOOD HEALTH

WE CHIROPRACTORS work with the subtle substance of the soul. We release the prisoned impulse, the tiny rivulet of force, that emanates from the mind and flows over the nerves to the cells and stirs them into life. We deal with the magic power that transforms common food into living, loving, thinking clay; that robes the earth with beauty, and hues and scents the flowers with the glory of the air.

Here's How It Happened:

In the dim, dark, distant long ago, when the sun first bowed to the morning star, this power spoke and there was life; it quickened the slime of the sea and the dust of the earth and drove the cell to union with its fellows in countless living forms. Through aeons of time it finned the fish and winged the bird and fanged the beast. Endlessly it worked, evolving its forms until it produced the crowning glory of them all. With tireless energy it blows the bubble of each individual life and then silently, relentlessly dissolves the form, and absorbs the spirit into itself again.

And yet you ask "Can Chiropractic cure appendicitis or the 'flu'?" Have you more faith in a knife or a spoonful of medicine than in the power that animates the living world?

The most precious thing in the world

Think what this world would be without confidence that the sun would rise tomorrow!

Without confidence in the order of things, in our fellow men, in our institutions, chaos would reign in the world. There would be no security, no progress, no happiness. Confidence is essential to all that is worth while.

Years of satisfactory experience with Red Crown gasoline have given the motoring public confidence in "Red Crown." They know that with "Red Crown" in the tank they have high-quality motor fuel, and that from it their engine will deliver its maximum power and mileage.

"Red Crown" is available at Standard Oil Service Stations, garages, and at other dealers.

Look for the Red Crown sign before you fill.

ALASKA ROAD NEEDS GREAT

[By Associated Press]
ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 22. Owing to the failure of the park department to make any provision for roads and to grant concessions for accommodations in Mount McKinley national park, the Alaska road commission will be compelled to supply whatever facilities are available for tourists during the coming season. It has been announced here. These will be in the form of additional tents along the summit pack trail between McKinley station on the Alaska railroad and Kantishna.

Application was made recently by Woodbury Abbey, who surveys the boundaries of the park, for a hotel concession, but this was refused owing to lack of roads within the park.

The condition brings to light some of the problems confronting Colonel J. C. Steese in operating the Alaska railroad. As president of the Alaska road commission Colonel Steese has had Major Gotvals in the field constructing wagon roads and trails into the Kantishna to serve the mining needs of this great lead-silver copper district. It was hoped the park department would be in a condition this season to have the road commission construct park roads in connection with these war department activities, but Congress deleted the appropriation of $130,000 from the budget and McKinley park is practically as primitive as it was in the beginning.

Speaking of the park Colonel Steese said all that could be done was for the Alaska Road commission to establish additional tents in connection with its work and allow those touring the park to utilize these accommodations.

"I believe when the Brooklyn Eagle party arrives to dedicate the park," Colonel Steese said, "the members will grasp the full importance of the matter and be able to assist in getting Congress to appropriate the necessary funds for the roads."

The only transportation available in the park will be by pack train, and as yet no large outfits have been organized to care for tourist travel. It will be possible for tourists in numbers to have the use of sleeping cars in McKinley station.

Observers of the government railroad project are of the opinion that McKinley park should become an adjunct in combination with the Alaska road commission and that the entire matter of development should be directed with a view to creating business for the railroad project. While admitting that the matter could properly be handled by the Alaska Engineering commission, Colonel Steese declined to stand sponsor for the suggestion, rather leaving it to be determined at Washington, and taking no steps until called into consultation.

BRIDGING THE GULF BETWEEN LABOR AND CAPITAL

Fourth of a series of sermons preached by Rev. Clifford A. Cole in the Central Christian church on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" was given Sunday. The subject of this sermon was "The Great Gulf—Will Labor and Capital Get Together?" This sermon had the largest audience of any so far in the series. It will be replayed carefully on Sunday night. The subject for next Sunday night is "The Coming Generation—Is Our Public School System Failing to Train Our Youth?" Sunday's sermon was as follows:

Texts: Whatsoever you would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them, (Matt. 7:12) Who-soever would become great among you shall be first servant, and who-soever shall be first among you shall be servant of all. (II Cor. 10:43-44).

"The teachings of Christianity seem to lay as a basis for happy and permanent human relationship in the golden rule, brotherhood in Jesus Christ, and practice of justice for the last man. I make this statement in the very outset that I may not be misunderstood later in the address. Without the recognition of this principle and without the recognition of its divine authority there can be no peace between institutions and men. And the church must aggressively seek to make the principle living and effective by the power of Jesus in the lives of men.

"We glibly speak of the great strife between working men and employers, of the gulf between labor and capital; the question, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' too easily falls from our lips. I'm wondering how many of you have ever given to the problem.

"To me, there is a menace more ominous to our American institutions than the agitator and worse than the trust magnate. We hear very much these days about the uprising of radicals and the I. W. O. They are bad enough, but I am not so much concerned about the uprising of radicals, as I am about the downings of conservatives. A greater menace to society is the smug, self-satisfied, middle-class—the stand-patters—the people who are quite content with things as they are and get a pretty good salary; enough to eat; who have good homes and who can't see the life of them who workmen should ask for an increase in wages; who do not wish to be disturbed; who do not want any change if it is going to disturb the even tenor of their ways or make them face the real problems of the masses. These are the people who are very largely responsible for the radicalism that is sweeping over the world today.

"The labor and industrial problem is one of the most tremendous situations of today—and a hopeful sign of the future. It is not a 20th century problem, but ages old. Most of us realize that it is a world-wide but not that it is world-wide. We must understand that before we can correctly gauge any other aspect of it.

"The facts of history are intelligible only when we note the struggles of the laboring classes to raise their living and relationships. It is not imagination to think of the Exodus as a strike, provoked by the demand of a walking delegate for a living wage and the recognition of the union. The history of Rome and Greece are economic struggles of the masses against the classes. The rise and fall of feudalism, of the absolute monarchy, the coming of the reformation, are based upon the underlying and conscious labor movements. Since the French revolution, the general establishment of popular governments has been based upon political, social and economic enfranchisement of the working classes. The present portends good, not ill, in my opinion.

"The New Testament recognizes and commends the dignity of labor that serves, announces the liberty of labor and the law of industrial democracy. Here it is, 'He who would become great among you, let him become a servant.' This old grey world has proven it to be true a thousand times, but ignorance and selfishness, the two dread monsters, have blocked the way and kept the world in turmoil.

"I suppose not all of you will grant that the speaker has a good perspective of this question. It might not be out of place to state that he has carried a workingman's union card, has worked at a trade, has preached hundreds of times to factory men and other working men, has made investigations, has talked with and listened to scores of employers and capitalists. I probably do not know one-half as much as I should. But I believe that the average workingman is too close to the labor question to understand it adequately; and what is true of the average workingman is also true of the average employer and employer, only more so. The average capitalist is so engrossed in the turning over of capital and labor into profits that he sometimes forgets that there is a great big, vital, human problem just outside his office door; and he fails to wake up to the fact that he hears the banging on the door by the shop committee, or a committee from the labor union. Then he is jolted into a realization that he has forgotten or ignored vast areas of the industrial problem which have been giving other people very serious concern. Both labor and capital need a larger outlook on the labor problem.

"Fifty or a hundred years ago, in America, the problem seemed small. We had an enlarging frontier and no great industrial side to our national life. Today, the great cities, congesting immigration, the enormous production and increase of wealth, attended as it has been by unjust and unequal distribution and unfair discrimination—all these have led to enriching a few far beyond belief and leaving a class more hopelessly oppressed and dissatisfied. When one per cent of the people control most of the wealth, three-fourths of which was derived through economic surplus, monopoly, marginal gambling, unearned increment from lands, mines and oil wells, some sort of special privilege or plunder, popular discontent is the result, even though some of these favored (?) men may think themselves the trustees for the country.

BABE RUTH'S OFF ON RIGHT PATH

When Ruth loped around the circuit for the first time this year.

That first home run that Babe Ruth drove out a few days ago meant more to him, the Yankee owners and the fan flock than just one home run. It gave Ruth the right kind of a start; it intimated to the Yankees that he has returned, to his old-time form; and it tipped the fans to the fact that they can expect some fireworks from the Big Boy.

"The problem is further enhanced because the unprecedented increase of wealth has brought its unprecedented increase of wants, but not a corresponding distribution of the new wealth to meet the new wants. Fifty years ago a boy would tramp 30 miles for a quarter.

"Once the machine was the implement of the man who did the work. Now the man is the attendant of the machine which does it.

"The result of these facts and many others has led to the organization of laboring men and to the amalgamation of business interests. Skilled labor in many places has formed strong labor unions. These unions, as is true of all organizations of fallible and sometimes selfish men, have occasionally wrought havoc upon commerce and industry. They have, on the other hand, made complaints of unfair discrimination, that unionism has been given widest publicity in its worst features and the better part of the machine which does it.

"There is no disputing that, while organized labor has done some things that have been disgraceful and has made many mistakes, it has been a factor in many reforms and uplifts of the laborer. It has done more to abolish child labor than any other organization. It has done more to wipe out unsanitary working conditions in shops and tenements. It has fought for a more temperate living on the part of laboring men, and many other wholesome things.

"There is no disputing the fact, as a strike, provoked by the demand of a walking delegate for a living wage and the recognition of the union. The history of Rome and Greece are economic struggles of the masses against the classes. The rise and fall of feudalism, of the absolute monarchy, the coming of the reformation, are based upon the underlying and conscious labor movements. Since the French revolution, the general establishment of popular governments has been based upon political, social and economic enfranchisement of the working classes. "No graver duty rests upon Christian men than to understand the labor problem. No greater honor could come to the wage-earner and the money-user than to know Christ and the church. Better acquaintance is the way to good will.

"Now the church has been the greatest trouble maker in history. It has made people dissatisfied and unsatisfied by showing them better and higher ideals. No progress in civilization has ever been made without such dissatisfaction with untoward conditions.

"Let the doubter consult a map of the world. Let him observe that China is a land of mandarins and coolies; that Egypt is a land of rich men and beggars; that Turkey is a land of pashas and slaves; that Africa is a land of slave-owning chiefs and their serfs. In what nation outside of Christendom is labor regarded with honor or the laborer permitted to be a self-respecting man? If we are reminded of the discontent which prevails among laboring people in Christian countries, of the strikes and processions of strikers marching through the streets with banners bearing legends of discontent, let it be remembered that these very expressions of desire to improve conditions are evidence of the influence of the gospel. Who ever heard of a procession of discontented toilers marching through the streets of the oriental cities in olden times? The right to protest is one of the rights which Christianity has vindicated among men. If the missionaries are on their jobs in heathen lands, you will soon hear about trouble, labor troubles, strikes, and lockouts in these heart of the dark continent. For missionaries will point out the low mental, moral and physical conditions under which the people are living and then they will show them the responsibilities of life in Jesus Christ and all that He may mean to them, and as they catch something of the vision, there will come among them a healthy spirit of unrest that will not be satisfied until it breaks the bands which have bound them through the centuries. It has been the history of the church in every generation.

"But the question is today in America, 'Will the church, having created this spirit of social unrest, step aside and allow the professional agitator and the Bolshevik to come and usurp the place belonging to it, or will the church finish the task it so long ago began?'

"The church has made mistakes. It has humans in it. But, if the church has no clear message regarding the suffering of a common humanity, then its task is done and it is a waning power.

"It has a message. It is the teaching of Jesus Christ, namely: That it is a question of character, what a man is within, that counts, rather than what he is without. Working men are saying today that if He was here, He would fight their battles. He would, because he did it two thousand years ago, until they crucified Him. Our social body will be just as good as the men and women who make it up. The heart of a pure social order is purity of the heart. We can offer panaceas and propose legislation and organize unions and what-nots, but the sure solution of these and other questions, in the final analysis, lies in Christianity. When we shall have Christianized the social order, we can hope for peace and tranquility in industrial life, and not before.

"I plead for a square deal for the working man; I plead for a square deal for the boss; I am asking for a square deal for the church; and, above all, I plead for a square deal for Jesus Christ. I ask no more for Jesus Christ than every man here asks for himself, namely, a square deal. Let's give it to Him!

"The golden rule and service for our brothers is the basis of His appeal and they will work."

"How shall these brothers get together? It will not be by fighting one another, nor by coercion. Josh Billings once said, 'Before you can have an honest horse race you must have an honest human race.' That's the gospel truth. Jesus, in his day, denounced with all the vehemence of His soul the conditions of the day, but instead of advocating another day He began to change the individual men. That may sound old-fashioned. If so, then I am old-fashioned in my convictions on that point.

"The federation of labor and the federation of capital wait for a united church. I do not mean by that that the church is to be the organization to mother all reform. It is not to be the propagandist of any political or social platform or party. It should inspire reform and solutions for civic and national evils, and should be the advocate of the brotherhood of man.

"No graver duty rests upon Christian men than to understand the labor problem. No greater honor could come to the wage-earner and the money-user than to know Christ and the church. Better acquaintance is the way to good will.

"Now the church has been the greatest trouble maker in history. It has made people dissatisfied and unsatisfied by showing them better and higher ideals. No progress in civilization has ever been made without such dissatisfaction with untoward conditions.

Principals' Convention
Has Many Fine
Lecturers

F. Stillwell Moore, principal of the high school, reports a very inspiring meeting of the principals at Yosemite, where about four hundred California instructors met to hear school problems discussed.

One of the most helpful speakers was Dr. John Adams of London, professor of education at the University of London. He spoke twice. His first address was on "Practical Use of Intelligence Tests," and the second lecture was "Psycho-Analysis."

There were many topics discussed by specialists, such as "Short Unit Courses in Pre-vocational Studies," Grace Stanley, state commissioner of Elementary Schools, spoke of "Pre-vocational Curricula for Girls."

Physical training topics and domestic science teachers told of their work. Thomas Russell of San Diego spoke about "Student Participation in Government."

"And above all, I want the young people to understand, not take simply for granted, what it means to have free schools, where the teachers take so much trouble to equip them with all the imaginable help of scientific manual and moral knowledge, that they will be able not only to make a success of the imperial family. He has been confined in the Bolshevik prison for nine months, with 11 ministers of state and five grand dukes.

Maxim Gorky, the famous Russian author, saved Baron de Ropp from torture and death. He finally succeeded in escaping with his wife and tiny son into Lithuania, where they are now residing. Before getting away he was forced

She and her husband came to the United States in 1915, after the Germans had devastated their estates. She declares her fondest hope is to help in promoting a friendly relationship between the two countries.

Her topic Thursday morning will be "Through the Eyes of Love." She spoke recently at San Fernando high school and the principal, Mrs. E. C. Ingram, wrote of her, "Baroness Ottily de Ropp spoke before the Girls' League of the San Fernando high school this morning, and I think she has a message which every American young person should hear."

Mrs. Rose V. Winterburn, head of the history department of the Manual Arts high school, wrote of her, "Baroness de Ropp has spoken twice to classes of advanced pupils in the history department here at Manual Arts high school. She is a charming and entertaining speaker for us all, and is peculiarly gifted as a speaker for young people. She holds their interest, ripples their laughter and stirs their tears.

RUSSIAN BARONESS WILL SPEAK AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM THURSDAY

Lecturer Will Tell of Conditions in Land of the Red
Flag As She Knows About It From Special Information

Baroness Ottily de Ropp, lecturer and author, will speak at the high school auditorium Thursday morning. It is open to the public. In telling of her lectures to Principal F. Stillwell Moore, she said:

"They have been, are now and always will be, so long as I am fortunate enough to live under the protection of the grand constitution of America, to try to the best of my ability to make every man, woman, and especially the young people, to realize all the countless blessings they have in this wonderful country by comparing them with the conditions we had in Russia before the revolution and those prevailing there at the present time.

H. S. BOYS TALK OF CONTEST Every Boy in School Has Part in the Big Event

Coach Ogburn, instructor of the high school gymnasium, was a busy man today and yesterday, for he was bombarded on all sides with questions from boys, for it was the "Boys' All-Participation Contest," and every boy in high school had to show his athletic prowess before official judges.

This All-Participation contest is something new in the line of athletics. For ages it has been the best athletes who received the attention of the training coach, but this contest was started in order that everybody might have some training.

This program of the valley schools is for the purpose of broadening the scope of athletic training. Every child in school has to take part in the five events. The pupils are graded on each event and the school making the highest score will win a trophy.

The five tests given to the boys were, (1) shot put; (2) throw for distance; (3) reach for distance; (4) circuit distance running and baseball strike.

L. P. Squires of Owensmouth was the out-of-town judge.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL SERVICES

A thousand school children will head the Memorial Day parade to Grand View cemetery. At 9 o'clock the townspeople will meet at the Edison school grounds. After a short patriotic community sing, led by the Burbank Choral club, Dr. Yale, commander of the American Legion, will speak. Then the school children, the G. A. R., the Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion, National Guard and civic bodies will march down San Fernando boulevard to Olive, north on Olive to Fourth, where they will go in autos to the Grand View cemetery where the American Legion burial ground will be dedicated. It will be the most widely observed Memorial Day in the history of the town.

HAVE YOU SEEN MARY AND HER HOUND?

Have you seen a dog with its ear chewed off, accompanying a 14-year-old girl? Burbank police officers say they are looking for the two of them. Mrs. M. J. Gibbs, 2207 Temple street, Los Angeles, phoned to the police asking for her daughter, Mary.

Mary, it seems, is very apt to leave home and travel hither and thither without telling any one where she will go. She has been out to Burbank once on her runaway trips, so naturally, it was expected she would return the first chance she had, although she has no friends or relatives here.

It is getting so that when the police have nothing else to do they hunt for Mary.

NAME IS PUT ON SCHOOL BUILDING

Three Burbank schools are shining with new labels today. Gold letters outlined in black bearing the names Thomas A. Edison, Luther Burbank and John Muir were arched over the entrances of the schools.

When the buildings were completed, the funds were low so that a name-plate was omitted. Now, with more money at hand, this neat and attractive lettering was put on Monday, costing $3 a letter.

ENTERTAINS AT SILVER TEA

FINANCIAL SALVATION

Louis Louché, a Frenchman of eloquence, has a very simple plan for settling the financial affairs of the world. It is for the United States to enter into friendly agreement to wipe out the debt Europe owes this people, and thereafter to lend to Europe all the money that troubled area feels itself to need. To mention such a plan as simple would seem to define it with reasonable accuracy. Were it to prove good in the present emergency, it would be equally good for emergencies yet to arise. Therefore the accepted arrangement would be for the United States to accumulate money chiefly for the purpose of sending it over for Europe to spend, and in the end forgive the new series of debts.

The question of Europe's future is of tremendous importance. Nobody, save the distinguished Louché perhaps, would venture to settle it by so one-sided a plan. The thought comes to mind that the United States is not responsible for the situation in which Europe finds itself. Probably a better idea than erasing the debts of Europe, and then creating a new lot, to be erased in time, all at the expense of the creditor, would be for the debtor land to cease its foolish fighting, and get to work. Certain things may be accomplished by the bayonet, but in the cultivation of fields and the reaping of harvests, it avails nothing.

Were Europe to cut down its military expenses, it might have something to apply to extinction of its obligations. Were it to be relieved of these obligations, and be enriched by a donation of gold, it would have received nothing but the assurance that it had no need to toil nor spin, but that the kind folk of the western continent would provide sustenance as freely as the ravens that were so charitable to Elijah.

CIVIC CENTERS

The establishment of a civic center is a natural phase of urban growth. No city that expects to develop into magnitude could afford to neglect this detail. It enters admirably into plans for harmonious expansion. It gives to the community a sort of basic point from which to calculate its material future. It is as important as the establishing of parks, or giving streets a suitable width, or of extending streets as necessity may demand.

Of course the proper time to attend to this essential detail is early in the history of a city. If in the beginning it has been neglected, the imperative demand for making it will be recognized later. It then will involve expense perhaps many times greater than would have been the case except for the oversight or negligence.

After years of talking about it, Los Angeles has at last resolved upon a civic center. The lack of such a center is the one point at which the southern metropolis has been outstripped by San Francisco. In the latter city is a magnificent civic center, commodious, and beautiful. In it every resident takes pride. It excites the admiration of all who see it. But whatever may be the site selected for a similar improvement in Los Angeles, the cost will be many millions more than had the matter been arranged years ago, even though actual construction had been held in abeyance.

Pasadena also hopes to have a civic center of becoming magnitude. Other cities, large or small, are showing signs of a like tendency. It is excellent to observe such signs. They bespeak a desire for stability, for architectural harmony, and indicate a seemingly local price and faith.

PROTECTING YOUNGSTERS

The clerk of Los Angeles county has decided that something must be done to discourage children who desire to marry. Heretofore the general custom seems to have been for the lad of 17 to swear to his age as 21. The 14-year-old girl with him would then under oath give her age as 18. After that the course was easy. For some strange reason such a pair of juveniles always could find somebody authorized to tie the knot, and with too little sense to decline to do it. The result, of course, has been suits for a series of annulments, or suits for support of two children, the wife and baby. In many instances parents have given consent to the marriage of offspring far below the proper age.

The proposal of the county clerk is not only that licenses shall be withheld from infant applicants, but that the names and descriptions of the pair shall be sent to the clerks of each county. A common plan of the precocious victims of puppy love, is to go into a community where they are not known. The proposal seems likely to be approved of and made effective.

In many relations in life boys and girls are entitled to protection. Public safety lies in caring for their health and morals, matters concerning which homes and schools divide responsibility. The thought that they should have to be protected against marriage may seem to be novel, and yet circumstances make clear the necessity for adult intervention in the field of baby romance and folly.

DEATH OF ARTHUR LETTS

The death of Arthur Letts, merchant of Los Angeles, removed from this community one of its outstanding figures. To this the tributes already paid, attest. From comparatively small beginnings, and in a short term of years, he had built a vast business, achieving a commercial success that seldom has been approached in the history of the west.

But business interests, great as they were, and as minutely as their course was directed by Mr. Letts, engaged but a part of his activities. He was, first of all, the devoted and enterprising citizen. He took pride in the growth of his city, quite apart with his own agency in that growth. He was ready always for public service. Representatives of a good cause making appeal to him never were coolly received, and never was their errand futile.

Mr. Letts was warmly concerned not only with the welfare of his own employees, but with that of young people in general. Particularly was he a believer in the value of morality. He was glad to associate with young men, and wise were the counsels he gave them. Many had learned to look upon him as a personal friend.

Doubtless the business he founded on a firm basis will continue, a monument to his ability and character, but for long, on the part of attaches and the public, the gracious personality of Arthur Letts, the man rather than the merchant, will be recalled.

There are rumors that the Northwestern university student supposed to have been hanged to death, or to have committed suicide, really is alive. If this is the case it would seem to be a reasonable suggestion that he step out of obscurity.

LADYLIKE OR WOMANLY?

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The movies are the bulwark of tradition. When it comes to rubbing in the ladylike point of view they are on the job with bells and a megaphone.

Tradition insists on ladylike conduct regardless of consequences. Womanly conduct is a different matter; it is something new under the sun and lots of us do not as yet recognize it when we see it.

However, recently I saw such a flagrant case of a heroine behaving in a ladylike manner when the circumstances shrieked for a little womanly conduct that I feel I must comment.

In my childhood it was ladylike for women to faint every time an emergency arose in sight; but that line of ladylike behavior got a death blow at the hands of ridicule. But it is still strictly ladylike to do nothing in a crisis but wring your hands and weep. Moreover it is esteemed the highest mark of a lady to take no interest in anybody or anything but her lover. If said lover has been slightly damaged in a scrap where others have been maimed or killed.

Maybe this is ladylike, but I maintain that it is not womanly. Let's be specific. In a show that the writer recently witnessed a girl was placed in jeopardy of life and limb by a collection of villains all of the masculine persuasion. Her danger was real and grave, and at two points in the action her life was saved by a servant. Did the circumstances call for gratitude? They did. Did the servant get it? Probably in theory, but we saw no evidence of it. When the crisis of the play arrived the girl was at the mercy of a man who, but for the servant, would have killed her. Instead he merely choked the servant to death—or to be accurate, into insensibility that seemed death.

Of course the girl's lover arrived in the nick of time and sailed into the fray. The villain threw the limp form of the servant aside and clinched with the lover, and the pitiful limp form lay there unattended while the girl, in defense of whom the poor chap had been choked, stood by gasping and wringing her hands while the lover and the villain staged a good old-fashioned fight and the camera man ground it onto the celluloid. Of course the lover won, the villain gave up and the girl fell into the strong arms that were held open for her. All very ladylike, no doubt.

But how about the servant? He, poor devil, struggled slowly to his feet without help or notice from the woman he had saved and slunk off down stairs to some secluded spot where the humble foregather.

The girl took no notice of him, yet the audience accepted her as a fine and admirable character.

The queer part is that nobody seemed to think it odd that a woman should stand by and see her one friend choked into insensibility without giving him any aid, still less that she was unwomanly and cruel not to inquire for his injuries. True her lover had a cut temple, which was all regular and duly romantic. The point is that we are still asked to admire inane and cruel conduct if it is traditionally ladylike and are unable to decide for ourselves when a heroine is unwomanly.

As for me, give me the woman who is courageous, appreciative and resourceful. A hand wringing beauty who forgets as soon as she is safe doesn't meet the specifications of the woman I'm scheduled to admire.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

WHEN "I" SELECTS "SHALL" OR "WILL" (Find the error in this article)

Are you sometimes puzzled as to which one of the following words you should use with the pronoun "I": shall or will?

If you wish to express the idea of determination, decision, consent, threat, promise, use will with the pronoun "I".

Examples: I will buy for you; I will do as you say; I will never cease annoying you.

The foregoing rule holds good when, instead of "I", the pronoun we is the subject.

Examples: We will come on Tuesday; We will leave no stone unturned to accomplish our purpose.

Now let her rip and use will and shall correctly.

Yesterday's Error

Wrong: Of course, if each one of the parts was plural, the verb would be plural.

Right: Of course, if each one of the parts were plural, the verb would be plural.

Vocabulary

A sudatory fever is a sweating-sickness. Sudatory means efficacious in exciting perspiration; sudorific: also; perspiring. So a sudatorium is a sweating-bath (a hot-air room in a Roman bath).

Quirks

Katherine E. Heaton: "You give as a correct form, 'every one's else hat.' In the Handbook of Composition by Edwin C. Woolley, I find the following: 'Both expressions, somebody else's and somebody's else are correct, but the former is preferred.' It seems to me that the expression, 'every one's else hat, is very clumsy, if correct.'

Miss Heaton overlooked two things. She did not see, or at least she did not give sufficient thought to, the sentence at the beginning of the column, 'Find the error in this article.' Secondly, on the following day, Miss Heaton apparently did not see (possibly she mailed her letter too hastily) the following under Yesterday's Error:

"Wrong: Every one's else hat has . . . ."

"Right: Every one else's hat has . . . ."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Habit.
That is a peculiar thing.
The inclination at a particular time to do a particular thing.

There is the habit that has its evil basis in desire for liquor or drugs.

There are certain habit-forming things in nature. Drugs for which the system develops a tolerance.

At the first the system rebels and revolts against habit-forming drugs.

Things like alcohol and tobacco and morphine and their kindred evil brothers and sisters.

But as Pope says about vice.
A monster of so frightful mien that to be hated needs only to be seen.

But when seen too oft and grown familiar, we first endure, and then pity and then embrace.

So it is with habit-forming drugs. First hated. Then endured. Finally embraced.

And in the end is destruction. Destruction from alcohol or morphine or their derivatives.

For the system comes to depend upon them. It becomes addict.

And after it becomes addict it is helpless unless plus alcohol or morphine.

But there are habit for good as well as habits for evil.

There are habit of thinking that are helpful.

There is the habit of thinking hopefully. There is the habit of good nature. There is the habit of optimism. For there are habits of thinking just as there are habits of doing.

There is the habit of working, for instance. The habit of thinking that the day is to work in and not to idle in.

There is the habit of doing the thing right at hand. That is a good habit.

And it is a habit that will become fixed and unalterable.

Habit is not necessarily evil. It all depends on what the habit is.

There is the habit of smiling with good nature. There is the habit of suspending judgment.

There is the habit of checking the harsh word on the hasty tongue.

There is the habit of tolerance. There is the habit of forgiveness. There is the habit of friendliness. There is the habit of helpfulness.

Be assured that all of these mental states can become habitual.

So, as some one has said some time, "get the habit."

Get the good habit. Get the habit of seeing the good in a thing instead of the bad.

Get the habit of seeing the good in a man rather than the bad.

Get the habit of seeing the good in the world instead of the bad.

There is much in habit. Much in accustoming the mind to wholesome processes and reactions.

Try it.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Penalties prescribed by the new California law designed to end traffic in forbidden drugs are very severe. In this fact lies their merit. Conviction of the first offense means a term of six years in jail, and the second offense will cost ten years' retirement.

No provision is made for a third offense, probably on the theory that there will not be any. Much has been said concerning the iniquity of the dope peddler, but to emphasize too greatly the truth about the malign creature would be impossible. Public welfare demands not merely that he be checked, but that he and his traffic be eliminated.

The harm that already has been done is incalculable. The vendor of the poisons seeks every means to increase the demand for his wares. With this purpose in view he sends agents to corrupt school children. The addict has a passion for teaching the habit, and bringing his associates down to his own wretched level.

Drugs stimulate to every form of crime, but particularly to the crimes marked by violence. The burglar, the bandit, the thug or murderer, is a dope fiend. It is because of this that he is active. He is impelled by desire for his drug, or he acts under the inspiration of its effect.

The vendor is fully aware of the mischief he does. He is the willing accessory of the criminal. Prison is the only place for him.

Governor Small was invited by an investigating committee to tell about the Herrin riots. The examination developed the fact that he knew less about them than the average newspaper reader does.

Oh, well, the governor has troubles of his own.

A jury at Klamath Falls, Ore., acquitted a woman who had killed a man. Naturally it will be commented that this is a way that juries have.

The facts in this case showed that the man deserved killing, and that neglect to perform so manifest a duty would have exposed the woman to harsh criticism.

There would be great gratification if the sheriff could arrange to have the tigerish Clara taken directly to the penitentiary. If landed in southern California she would be sure to talk. People in this neck of the woods know when they have had enough.

Twins were born to a Los Angeles couple. The husband insisted that they be given away for adoption. The wife and mother, having a soul, declined to consent. On the contrary she got a divorce. Now if somebody wants to adopt an ex-husband, here's a chance.

Recently eighty-eight ships were in the harbor at San Pedro at once. Incidental to the presence of such a number was the unloading of sixty million feet of lumber.

There still are people in California who remember when to laugh at the idea of a harbor at San Pedro was common. That brand of cackle has been succeeded by a great silence.

Watching Europe now is worse than trying to keep the vision focused on the spectacles of a three-ring circus.

Only a few weeks ago there were rumors of what terrible things a combination of Russia and Turkey could bring about. Now these two are engaged in hating each other. That is more cheering to the world than the former prospect.

There still are people who think it a joke to kidnap a bridegroom. They exist only to sustain the adage that it takes all kinds of people to make a world.

However, they constitute one of several types that could be dispensed with, and the world be better for the change, adage or no adage.

Alva Adams has been appointed senator from Colorado to succeed the late Samuel Nicholson. The appointment brings into notice a familiar name. Alva Adams, father of the senator, was three times governor of Colorado, and for many years a leading figure in democratic politics there.

Another interesting point is that in making the appointment Governor Sweet ignored the three men suggested for the place by Woodrow Wilson, William Gibbs McAdoo and William Jennings Bryan.

There will be some regret over the defeat of Bryan who sought to become moderator of the Presbyterian assembly. The public does not actively dislike Bryan. It even smiles without bitterness upon his views concerning evolution.

At it would have been such a comfort to the gentleman to have been elected to something just for once.

China has not been awakening so fast as commonly believed, or it would have had that bunch of bandits hanged or otherwise disposed of by now.

The message sent it by this government will have a tendency to jar it out of its doze unless it is under the spell of a powerful sleeping potion.

Two former deputies of the sheriff's office, sentenced to the penitentiary, have lost their appeals, and must go. Two others have been dropped and must face serious charges.

The reform of the criminal administration, long heralded as on the way, seems to have arrived.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We used to say that Tommy Perry had the best temper of any man in the office. When things were going absolutely to pot, Tommy could manage a smile. On an electric day, when the big boss came in to drag us over the coals, Tommy kept his head. When the petty annoyances of daily life bunched themselves Tommy just shrugged his shoulders and went on about his business.

"When things went to far wrong," we observed last night, "Tommy used to right 'em. Or else walk out. But he never quarrelled."

Reason why we were discussing Tommy is that we had heard that he had just turned his wife out of doors. No other woman was involved, nor any other man. Tommy took the lady home from a dance, went to the hall closet and packed his grip and said good-by.

"I'll pay the rent next month," he said. "Then I'm through. I will never willingly see you again."

We all panned Tommy—panned him to a crisp—put him on the glowing coals and pushed him down. Then we began to remember. Tommy's wife is the most persistent little nagger any of us had ever known. She was at him all the time. If he put on his gray hat she wanted to know why he didn't wear his brown. If he donned a dinner jacket she wanted to find out why he had not put on the full regalia. She drove from the back seat. She complained of every dinner he ordered. Once Tommy incautiously said he was tired.

"That's all nonsense," she said. "You ought not to be tired. Say to yourself, 'I am not tired' and you'll be all right."

If he went out to dinner alone she kept him awake complaining when he got back. If he took her she nagged.

So—Tommy being what Tommy is—he just walked out on her. And after we had satisfied our natural human desire to tell each other what a fiend he is, we agreed that he had been justified.

Nagging, as a vice, can be compared to dope.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

There are 10,000,000 square miles of ocean deep. About 40 per cent of all children over six months old are naturally immune from diphtheria, as shown by the Schick test. The remaining 60 per cent can be made immune by means of antitoxin vaccine, and thus medical science now provides a means of practically banishing this dread disease from the world.

The ocean contains 4,800,000 cubic miles of salt, enough to cover the surface of the United States 1.6 miles deep.

DO YOU OWN YOUR OWN HOME?

If you are renting there is no good reason why the money you are paying out for rent should not be used in making payments on a home.

All around you is evidence of determination. What others have done you can do. You hesitate to assume this obligation and continue paying rent while friends adopt the other plan. You then envy their possessions and wish you had made the start when they did, for the contentment and permanency attached to home ownership greatly offset the sacrifices you make in meeting payments, etc.

Your banker, your lawyer, your merchant, and worth-while families you know, own their homes. You accept their advice—why not follow their example?
To rent the house you live in is a public confession of failure, shiftlessness and poor judgment. Home ownership is a commercial as well as a social asset.

A home in the true sense is not a leased or rented dwelling where no permanency is assured, but must be your very own—to have and to hold. Must be planned by a united family, erected by loving hands and paid for by willing sacrifices.

You know you would be far better off if the money you are paying out for rent was being applied towards acquiring a home; that in a few short years would be your own. Knowing this, why delay? Resolve now that no more of your money will be converted into rent-receipts, but, instead, will go towards paying for a home of your own.

GLENDALE MAN REPORTS ON THRACE

E. A. Eckman, Field Manager of Red Cross, Tells of Refugees

ATHENS, (By Mail). — That Greece has an unusual opportunity to take a leading position in the world in the lace and embroidery industry because of the huge number of expert needlewomen among the million refugees from Asia Minor is the declaration of E. A. Eckman of Glendale, Calif. Mr. Eckman is field manager of the relief work of the American Red Cross among the 137,000 refugees in Western Thrace.

"Of the total number of refugees in my district," Mr. Eckman said, "there are fully 90,000 women and children and old men. And among the women there are at least 10,000 who are either experts in lace making or in the finest kind of embroidery, while there are thousands of others whose work is of an excellent type."

"We have entire camps of 700 or 800 people which have not a single man in them. And the women without children spend whole days in making lace out of the most inferior materials, just to have something to do. There is no occupation for them outside of this. Right in Cavalla, where there are 20,000 refugees among a normal population of 15,000 there are at least 10,000 lace or embroidery workers."

"Where the lace and embroideries of Asia Minor used to have a high place in the world of fancy work, there is very little made now chiefly because the refugees have no materials to work on. And if some enterprise of this sort were to be started the supply of workers would be very plentiful, as the women are eager to resume their former occupation."

While the development of such an industry is out of the scope of the emergency relief operations of the American Red Cross, facts of this sort are being compiled to help bring about a permanent solution of the assimilation and rehabilitation of the exiles.

Next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock a single tax meeting will be held at the Robinson home, 332 North Maryland, to discuss its fundamental principles. Mrs. Harriet D. Prenter of Toronto will be the leading speaker and a free discussion will take place. Everyone is cordially invited to come.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. JOLEY

THE VICTORY

Go forth, a man, and have no childish fears;
The day is dawning and the work begun;
Here is the labor that shall fill thy years;
Here are the tasks for doing, one by one.
Put on thy workman's garb, what may it be,
Take up thy tools and grip them hard and fast,
Do thy day's work and do it honestly,
And fear not—thou shalt gain the prize at last.

Stand straight, and look the world clear in the eye,
Fear not tomorrow, for it too is sure
If thou wilt whimper not or rail or cry,
But build today a something to endure.
Be it a wall, a dream, a thing of worth,
Set it on sure foundations, and you can,
There is no power or will on all the earth
Shall make thee fail if thou wilt play the man.

Clear eye, clear heart, firm hand and friendly soul,
And with it all the will to strive and do;
These are the firm foundations and the whole
Of life be constant and pledge faith anew
With each new day and surely as the sun
Comes with the dawn so is thy victory;
The days are stones for rearing, one by one,
Set them with high resolve and faithfully.

PASADENA HIGH IS HOST TO GIRLS OF GLENDALE HIGH

A group of about thirty students from Glendale high enjoyed "Girls' Day" at Pasadena high on Saturday, where three girls' teams from the school were entered. As the Glendale tennis representatives, Mary Barbara Taylor played the first girl from Jefferson high and won 6-2, 6-4.

In the basketball contest Helen House and Gladys Gilman did good work as forwards and Harlan Hill and Anna Mae Monros as guards. Doris Moyse played jumping center part of the time and Mildred Matthews, running center. They were at a disadvantage in not having their full team but made a good showing though they did not win.

In baseball the Glendale girls captained by Barbara Kranz who played first base, won from Long Beach with a score of 28 to 14.

Following the luncheon served at mid-day there was an interesting program of entertainment which included swimming matches, a wall scaling exhibition, and funny stunts.

GLENDALIANS AT THE MISSION PLAY

Glendale was very well represented at the Knights of Columbus night, held Saturday at the Mission Play in honor of John McGroarty, by 125 members of the local council and their ladies. Mr. McGroarty gave a talk at the end of the second act, referring to the Glendale lodge as "his own hometown council." He was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers from the Glendale council and also received a big ovation at the end of his talk. A special section was reserved at the playhouse for the Glendale delegation.

EVENTFUL WEEK OPENS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Round of Activities Outlined for the Next Seven Days

This will be quite an eventful week at Glendale high. Thursday evening the school is expected to attend en masse the recital to be given at the Tuesday Afternoon club in honor of Miss Hazel Linkogel, solo violinist, who is a member of the senior class. The music department of the school, and the Glendale Music club and its auxiliaries are uniting in this effort to raise a scholarship fund to send her to Chicago for instruction under a world famous violinist connected with the Chicago Conservatory of Music, and if plans are carried out, she will not be here much longer. Tickets are being placed on sale today at the high school.

Friday night the A-9s are to have a party in the girls' gym at which games will be played and a variety of entertaining stunts will be enjoyed. An assembly was held yesterday to make arrangements for the festivity.

Friday afternoon juniors of Glendale high will entertain the seniors at Sunset Canyon country club from 2:30 to 6 with a swimming party and other outdoor diversions followed by a supper in the club house. Ronald West, president of the junior class has general charge of the affair, at which not less than 300 will be entertained, and teachers and parents will act as chaperones.

Wednesday, the girls' team and the boys' team will play tennis matches with Monrovia tennis players. Interclass baseball games between girls' teams of Glendale high will be resumed this week, the junior and senior teams playing Tuesday night.

FELINE LOYAL TO TRADITION
OGDEN, Utah, May 21.—"And the cat came back." This was the message received by employees of the Union Pacific freight station in Ogden from Denver, after the disappearance of a black cat that had come to this city in a car of merchandise.

Three weeks ago, according to local men, a black cat jumped from a car that had just been opened at the local station. It soon found a home with the workers, but disappeared a week later.

And now comes the message saying that the cat had returned to Denver in the same car in which it left the Colorado metropolis.
